

WORLD'S FIRST ATOMIC BOMB was selective. Some buildings were left standing while others were leveled. Photos taken by Daly City businessman

Vince Merlo days after bomb drop give testimony to desolation caused by device. From atop Hiroshima Herald building Merlo shot scene of city looking

Wartime Memories Still Haunt D.C. Civic Leader

By FRANK LAPIERRE

Vince Merlo is not a military strategist. His expertise in this field is limited to carrying a U.S. Army rifle through steaming jungles from island to island during World War Two in the south Pacific.

The husky Merlo, president of the Mission Merchants Association and a Daly City tavern owner, wants nothing more than to forget the events of 27 years ago.

But he has trouble forgetting. His experiences sometimes haunt him. The unusual thing about Merlo's memories are not of the battlefield, rather they are of his "peacetime" duties in occupied Japan.

It was exactly 27 years ago that sergeant Vince Merlo, 41st Division, Inf. Assault Force, boarded the ship which would return him to the states.

He had seen many things since joining the Army in 1943 the thought of returning home on that January day in 1946 was welcome news indeed, he remembers.

August 6, 1945: Sergeant Merlo's outfit was briefed on the planned assault landing on the mainland of Japan as they packed their gear aboard a ship off Okinawa. The commanding officer informed his men it was expected that two out of three of the soldiers would be casualties in the landing at Kure, Honshu.

"We didn't like that kind of news," Merlo recalls. But there was another significant event on that slightly overcast day, an event so immense it would shape the future of mankind and make war such a terrible price to pay for settling disputes of nations that one would have to be a maniac to even try it.

Unknown to Merlo, some six hours and 1500 miles away a B-29 staggered into the air from a runway on the tiny island of Tinian, between Guam and Saipan.

The "Enola Gay" with her volunteer crew and two trailing B-29s used for packing scientific equipment set a course for Hiroshima—and posterity.

At 7:09 a.m. on that August day air-raid sirens had wailed their warning of approaching aircraft. A lone weather aircraft flew twice over the city and disappeared.

The city's 245,000 residents left their shelters and went back to whatever they were doing before the B-29 buzzed over.

Merlo's commanding officer continued his briefing. At 8:16 a.m. the "Enola Gay" approached the city, opened its specially designed bomb bay doors and pulled the release lever at an altitude of some 20,000 feet.

People in the street paid the lone plane little mind.

Two days before a flight of 30 planes had bombed nearby Kure. What could one single bomber do?

The world's first atomic bomb, a device of only 15 kilotons, exploded at 1850 feet over the city.

Officially 78,150 people were killed outright, 13,983 missing, 37,425 injured (many to die later) 68,000 buildings destroyed.

While victims of the bomb were dying a lingering death from burns and trying to dig other victims out of the rubble, Merlo's company was preparing to ride out a typhoon off Okinawa.

Finally, less than three weeks after the Hiroshima raid, an assault force landed at Kure.

The war had ended with the unconditional surrender of Japan, but the soldiers had been told they might still encounter some resistance from the people.

There was no resistance. "Matter of fact there were very few people in sight," Merlo said.

The assault force picked their way through the rubble of Kure and set up camp at a place called Hiro, on the road to Hiroshima.

Sergeant Merlo was ordered to establish roadblocks around the city of Hiroshima—to prevent people from leaving and (Please See Page 2, Column 1)

Ryan Announces for Congressional Seat

Assemblyman Leo J. Ryan (Dem.) on Tuesday officially launched his campaign for election from the new 11th District Congressional District in San Mateo County.

The announcement was made at a general press conference at the South San Francisco city hall where Ryan began his political career 15 years ago as a councilman.

Ryan said that unemployment, the economy and the problems of the people would be issues he would stress in his bid for congressman.

He was the first Democrat to win state office in San Mateo County. In 1968 he received the nominations of both the Democratic and Republican parties. In 1970 he was re-elected by a comfortable 77 per cent of the vote, carrying every precinct.

The newly apportioned congressional seat is entirely within San Mateo County, and 62 per cent of it is within Ryan's current Assembly District.

"The economy is a sick and weak patient that is in need of comprehensive therapy instead of economic aspirins," Ryan said. The veteran assemblyman noted that there are some 75,000 people out of work in the Bay Area alone and that he would gear his campaign "to convert our local industries to fight the problems of pollution and poverty not war."

Ryan, who has represented northern San Mateo county for the past ten years in the state legislature pledged to use all the knowledge and expertise that "I have obtained at the local and state levels of government to provide the quality of service that the people of San Mateo county deserve."

He said the problems of the people, young and old, poor and middle class will be the major thrust of his campaign.

"Our system must include the idealism of the young so that they may be active participants in shaping the world that they soon will inherit," he said.

Asked if he had received assurances from Rep. Paul N.

Jones Action Upheld

Dismissal on Marijuana Convictions Depends On How Adversely Teacher Fitness Affected

By VIRGIL WILSON

Conviction of possession of marijuana can be, although not necessarily, cause for dismissal of a teacher, the District Court of Appeal has ruled.

It all depends, the court held in a decision handed down last week, on whether the conviction adversely affects the teacher's fitness to teach.

On that basis, the court upheld the dismissal of Selwyn Jones, a former art teacher at Westmoor High School in the Jefferson Union High School District, but reached the opposite conclusion in the case of Arthur T. Comings, a former teacher in Oakland.

The dismissal of Jones in 1969 following conviction in Honolulu was justified, the appellate court held, because there was evidence that his conduct "attained a degree of timely notoriety among persons — students, teachers, parents and others — interested in Westmoor High School."

In the case of Comings, whose state teaching credential was revoked following conviction in San Diego, the court ruled, however, that there was no evidence as to his unfitness to teach. It was noted that the record did not show whether or where he taught in a public school in California "thus precluding any inference as to the relevant notoriety of his conduct." The court ordered that his credential be restored.

Comings pleaded guilty in 1967 and was admitted to probation on condition he serve 60 days in jail. Jones pleaded no contest in 1969 and was placed on probation and fined.

In the case of the Daly City teacher, the decision notes that Margaret Riggs, vice principal at Westmoor, testified in court that: "Jones' return to the school as a teacher would adversely affect its art department, its faculty at large, its student body generally, and the students' parents, because many of the persons involved had expressed 'disapproval' or 'concern' at the prospect of having a teacher on the campus who had been convicted of using marijuana or who had admitted its use."

It was also noted that Miss Riggs said his return could have had an adverse effect upon the school's instructional campaign on drug use and abuse. She said it would "work against the total goals of our school" because it would not indicate to the students "the kind of behavior which they are told to develop."

D.C. Appointments

Redevelopment Advisory Group

The Daly City Redevelopment Agency Monday established a 25 member advisory committee which is expected to aid in the study of housing conditions in the older sections of the city.

Two-year appointments were given to 24 persons from throughout the business and civic community at the 5 p.m. meeting at city hall.

Committee members were expected to select from their own ranks a chairman, vice chairman and secretary.

All committee members serve without compensation.

Mayor Bernard J. Lycett said the committee will act in an advisory capacity to the Redevelopment Agency Board, the city's Planning Commission and city staff on any and all matters relating to activities of the agency.

Included on the committee are:

Julius F. Castelan, Edward J. Dennis, Mary Davenport, Michael Furch, J. Steven Fleischer, Chris Giotinis, Moses Guilory, Ralph Hall.

Lyle Ingersol, Albert Jenkin, Samuel Jacobson, Mrs. Maria Luna, Vincent Merlo, Father Thomas McElligott, Elton McGraw, Walt Mignault, Ernest Molinari.

Election Filings Continue

Area election races continued to warm up this week as more candidates — including students — have been filing as candidates.

In San Bruno: Mary Hausenrath, 140 Plumas Court, and Douglas R. Dawkins, 19 Eaton Drive. Dawkins operates a gymnastic studio and swim school in San Bruno.

Four new candidates have filed their nomination papers this week, including Doris Christiansen, Daniel P. Comarato, Ruben Avelar and Donald C. Phelps. Previously having filed their papers were Leonard Saron, Orville Wycoff and Gary Mondtrans. Both Mondtrans and Phelps are below 21, but qualify to run under the new voter registration law.

In Millbrae, the first student has taken out nomination papers but has not yet decided to run. He is Kenton Graeber, 939 Springfield, 21 years old and an education major at San Francisco State College. He graduated from Lowell High and College of San Mateo.

Two more have filed their papers, incumbent Bill Glang, and Barney Spera. Robert McAdam's papers are still out. Having previously filed is Donald Cahen.

A new development in Millbrae took place when Charles Yetter, a former mayor, took out nomination papers to run for treasurer. Incumbent treasurer G. Adgar Rodgers has also taken out papers but has not filed.

The number of trustee candidates for the Jefferson Elementary School District in Daly City increased by one this week when J. B. (Jim) Edwards filed his election papers with the San Mateo County Clerk.

High-Rise Plan Discarded in DC

That ambitious plan to construct a complex of high-rise office buildings in Daly City that would one day bustle with some 5,000 workers has been discarded.

Duffel Corporation had made the interesting proposal for a 33-acre parcel of land property east of the sprawling Serramonte Shopping Center.

Spokesmen for the East Bay-based firm had asked for the rezoning of two small sections on the parcel to build gasoline stations.

The request for the stations was approved by the city council and Planning Commission over strong objections from the Serramonte Homeowners' Association.

Duffel, it was learned, recently closed a deal with the southern California based REA Corporation selling the entire commercially zoned parcel for some $11 million.

Earlier, in consideration of the zoning request for the two service station parcels, both the city council and planners had based their approval on assurances that the two stations would be part of an over-all commercial complex.

The Duffel Corporation had outlined their plan to use proceeds from the sale of the two parcels to build the first high rise of 13 stories.

Extensive grading was done in the area and a sign declaring "Office space" erected on the site. To date, that is the extent of the high-rise project by Duffel.

REA, a widely reputed organization that has built everything from residences to high rise structures, has its own plans for the area. These plans do not include high rise, a spokesman said.

The two service station sites are located at the main entrance to the property.

REA plans to build a low density (some 80 units) on the site, complete with a complex for adults and another for families with children.

Swimming pools, sheltered parking, tennis courts and other recreational facilities are planned for the site.

"These will not be barracks type apartments," a spokesman said.

He promised "exciting features" in the wood structures with "considerable green belts" around the area.

There will be a variety of floor plans and exterior designs, it was pointed out.

Some apartments will contain three bedrooms. Structures will not exceed three stories.

The construction phase will be carried over the next two years.

The firm will allow some ten acres of the property to remain commercial for use as office space and perhaps small shops. The "family section" will be in the first phase construction.

Coast Recreation Program For Handicapped Approved

A recreation program for the orthopedically handicapped has been approved by Pacific officials.

The program is scheduled to begin in March and run on alternate Saturdays for approximately a four-hour period during the day.

It will be carried out at the Fairmont Recreation Center and participants will be charged $1 a month to cover the cost of supplies.

Contributions also will be accepted as well as solicited from organizations interested in participating in the program.

Our Number

If you have a complaint or a request for the North County Post, please telephone 589-1234 between 9 a.m. and 7:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

The program implementation has been set up in three phases. Councilman Stan Farber objected to approving the program in its entirety until all three phases had been completed.

He said his concern was that those who are operating the program are properly qualified to handle orthopedically handicapped.

Phase one began this month with the contact of volunteers who had indicated interest in participating in the program. Interviews were held to assess interest and ability. Letters also were sent to potential participants through the Laguna Salada School District and the county school system.

Phase two is the training portion. At this stage if it is determined if a volunteer is not suited for the task of supervision he would be placed into other areas. The actual training will consist of a four-week training session including a general meeting.

unauthorized personnel from entering.

"No one passed unless they were cleared top secret. Most were scientists," Merlo said. "None of us knew about radioactivity. We could not believe that one bomb had struck this city."

His company had to trek through the city to secure it. People — children, women, old and young men — dazedly walked about, many with massive burns.

"I think the rivers saved many after the bomb fell," Merlo said.

Hiroshima is laced with rivers. Apparently survivors of the blast and initial flash, jumped into the rivers to cool their bodies. By doing this they washed away much of the radiation.

He visited a hospital. He saw people with flesh falling away from their bodies walking the streets in search of loved ones.

"One visit to that hospital would convince anyone about dropping the 'bomb' again. They would have to be a maniac to do it again."

"Like the other guys I agreed the bomb was the answer. It saved us from fighting our way ashore. But after I saw what this thing could do, I wasn't very proud. I don't remember anyone in my outfit being proud of what happened there," Merlo said.

He said the object of the bomb drop, according to what he had been told by a superior officer, was to wipe out a garrison of 20,000 Japanese soldiers stationed there. The soldiers assembled at 8:30 a.m. and the bomb drop would coincide with this assembly.

It worked perfectly. Only eight soldiers who were confined to an underground prison escaped. But Merlo seriously doubted the American scientists, who tested the device only three weeks before in New Mexico, knew the absolute destructive power of their invention.

People throughout the city had their own story to tell Merlo.

A Catholic missionary was standing in the garden of his mission when the explosion hit the city.

"I don't recall his name. He was from Belgium," Merlo said. "The blast knocked him to the ground. When he stood up the tree he had been leaning against was carbonized."

The missionary suffered only small cuts.

"He asked me why had God spared him but I didn't know what to tell him," Merlo said.

The bomb was selective.

It wiped out some buildings and left others standing. It twisted steel and turned the sand into glass. It consumed trees and grass and even small ponds.

Last year, the Japanese Atomic Bomb Casualty Center attributed some 230 more deaths to the after-effects of that blast. This figure does not include deformed births and stillborn babies.

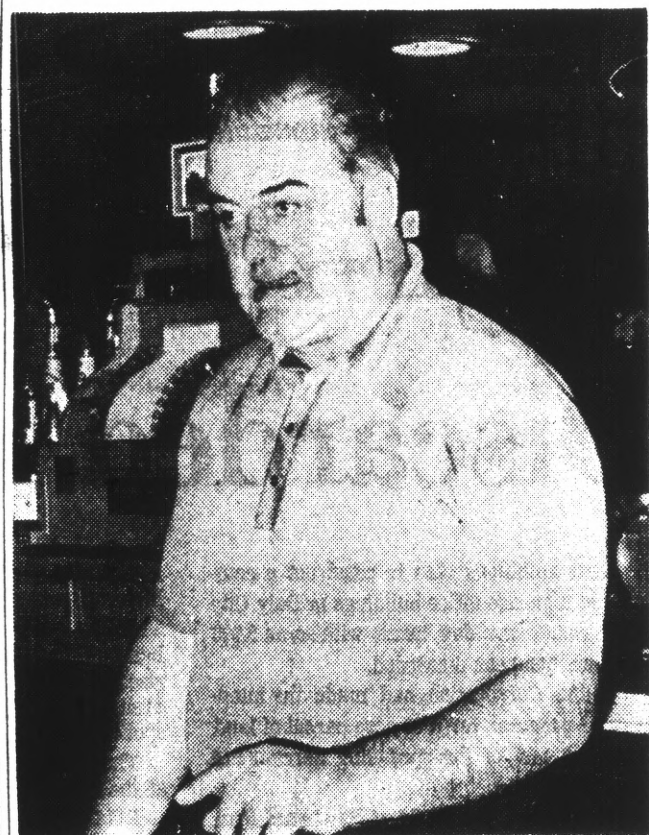

Nor does it point up the generations-long embarrassment even now being suffered by those who either were in the city or are descendants of parents from Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Such persons must make known their status upon marriage. It is a mark they will perhaps always bear, the fear of deformed births is such.

Merlo himself suffered no ill effects from the radiation that lingered in the rubble of Hiroshima.

He was instructed to carry clean water at all times and to periodically douse himself with it to wash away the unseen death.

And he was told not to take photographs of the city. He disobeyed the second order and brought back many photographs, never before published. He also brought back many memories.

Manager Reopens Door to Annexation

The door that Daly City slammed last year regarding annexation of San Bruno Mountain was pried open by city manager David Rowe Wednesday.

Revised reports made by Crocker Land Company for their 3,000 acre Visitation Rancho development had not been studied in time for the mid-week Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) meeting, Rowe said.

In light of these revised reports Rowe asked the LAFCO board to hold up any action on a sphere of influence, which will affect eventual annexation to one or more of the three cities surrounding the mountain.

Rowe said he understood that Crocker Land Company had already submitted plans to the San Mateo County Parks and Recreation Commission, but Daly City had not seen these plans as yet.

Sherman Coffman, executive director of LAFCO, said Crocker had made proposals to the Parks and Recreation Commission. It was explained that plans submitted to LAFCO regarding the mountain development were "in direct conflict" with plans for parks and open space programs in the county.

Rowe made it clear that Daly City "fully supports" plans of RPC (Regional Parks Commission) of which Daly City mayor Bernard Lyett is chairman.

And he emphasized that plans submitted to LAFCO do not conform to the master plan of the RPC.

There were "glaring inadequacies and deficiencies" in plans submitted by Crocker, and Daly City wanted time to study these plans, Rowe said.

Daly City, disregarding an earlier bid made by Brisbane to take over the mountain site development, informed LAFCO's board, consisting of supervisors Ged Day and Mrs. Jean Fassler, Menlo Park Councilmen William Lawson, San Bruno councilman Maurice Hamilton (chairman of LAFCO) and retired attorney Emory Morris, wanted time to look over the new proposals made by Crocker.

There are many areas left unknown and incomplete, Rowe said in asking LAFCO for time to evaluate the revised plans.

Supervisor Day wondered aloud "if we aren't spinning our wheels" in trying to determine a stand while different plans were being submitted.

Fellow Commissioner William Lawson noted LAFCO was coming to North County cities asking "what should we do?" and "Daly City is not providing the answers."

He chided north county cities for not providing the help LAFCO needs in making its decisions.

Rowe responded to the Commission by saying his city expected the same up-to-date facts in order to base their recommendations on that LAFCO would require to make a decision.

Fears that Crocker's revised plans might "change the entire character of the development" were expressed by Rowe in asking for the sphere of influence delay.

The Wednesday public hearing was only a preliminary study to determine a sphere of influence for the mountain, chairman Hamilton reminded Rowe.

Pacifica Crime Drops

The seven most serious crimes — homicide, robbery, rape, aggravated assault, burglary, auto theft and larceny of more than $50 — were down 12.5 per cent in 1971 from 1970 in Pacifica.

This is what Police Chief Mel Nelson notes as the most important departmental statistic in his annual report to the city council.

However, looking at individual statistics he showed that crimes of violence have gained. There were two murders in the city in 1971 as compared with one in 1970. Both 1971 murders were attributable to juveniles.

Forcible rapes were up from seven to ten; assaults were up from 102 to 138. However, burglaries were down by 107, including commercial burglaries off 22 and auto burglaries down 44 from 1970, a 30 per cent decrease.

According to the chief's report, adult arrests were up more than nine per cent while juvenile arrests decreased better than 20 per cent. One reason given for this statistic is that juvenile offenders became adults.

Auto accidents remained virtually unchanged, down to 662 from 667. Chief Nelson said one of the department's goals for 1972 will be to reduce accidents by five per cent.

Citations for traffic violations increased 67 per cent, due to a new traffic officer and a radar equipped car authorized in 1970. The unit became operational in February of 1971 and revenue for citations is up proportionately.

There were many changes in personnel and assignments in 1971, including Nelson, who began his first year as chief. Sgt. Bruce Rivers assumed duties of heading the patrol division and was ultimately promoted to captain. Captain Ray Shipley was transferred from commander of the patrol division to head the criminal investigation division.

In October Sgt. Tony Guardino was promoted to captain and was assigned commander of the patrol division, and Capt. Rivers was put in charge of the administrative services division.

Officers Richard Hillman, Joe Santos, and Bill Tafuya were promoted to sergeants to fill vacancies created by the captains' promotions and to fill an additional supervisory position authorized when the department instituted the ten-plan, a four day week, ten-hour day.

In all a total of ten new officers were hired during the year, representing 45 per cent of the patrol force, to fill vacancies created by resignations, promotions and new positions.

Spadarella Chosen for Crime Unit

Frank L. Spadarella, a Daly City businessman, has been appointed to Attorney General Evelle J. Youngers' volunteer advisory committee, formed to provide support for a statewide crime prevention and control activities.

The committee will be asked to help develop the legislative programs of the Attorney General's office in not only the crime prevention field but also in the environmental and consumer protection plans.

Spadarella was asked further to serve on a legislative subcommittee which is being formed by Assembly Districts, he will represent the 27th Assembly District.

He has long been active in San Mateo County in the field of Police Community Relations.

As Chairman of the County Human Relations Commission he helped in establishing a police grievance procedure with the Police Chief's Association of San Mateo County and the HRC.

Couple Held Captive in Their Home

A retired Millbrae couple were held captive in their home Monday while two gunmen ransacked the house and stole $115 in cash after gaining entrance by claiming they were police.

The home of Edward Peter DeMatei at 370 Poplar Avenue had been burglarized last week, and the DeMateis had been talking with officers about that crime from day to day.

Last night, as the 65-year-old DeMatei and his wife relaxed after dinner the doorbell rang.

Mrs. DeMatei went to the door, and saw a thin man, wearing a blue sweater and brown pants with white belt. He flashed a gold badge at her, and said:

"I'm the police."

He said he was "working special detail" and wanted to "see the safe."

The man asked several questions, and DeMatei told his wife to phone the Millbrae police station and see whether they should answer.

At that point, the doorbell rang again. As Mrs. DeMatei opened the door, a second man forced past her. He was shorter, she said, with dark hair and a mustache, dark trousers and a dark sports jacket.

Crocker Wants Bruno Mountain in Brisbane

By FRANK LaPIERRE
Crocker Land Company Thursday asked the San Mateo County Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) to put their undeveloped San Bruno Mountain lands within the sphere of influence of Brisbane.

The Crocker request came at the end of a similar plea made by Brisbane Mayor Julius Stern before the commission asking for the mountain.

Concerned people from throughout the Peninsula, including San Francisco, Santa Clara and San Mateo, overflooded the council chambers during the hearing.

A determination as to what city — Brisbane, South San Francisco or Daly City — will get the right to annex is expected to be decided by LAFCO within the next 60 days.

Originally, Brisbane had insisted that part of the 3,600-acre "Visitation Rancho" development lying east and north of the ridge line be put into their sphere of influence.

In September 1971, Brisbane amended its proposal and informed Crocker they would not be adverse to accepting the entire mountain development.

Mayor Stern restated that position before LAFCO Wednesday.

And he noted that some question had been raised regarding the ability of Brisbane to control development of the vast mountain area.

A Fight to Save It

By BOB PETERSON
Bette Higgins can look out the front window of her moderate home and gaze at the bare side of San Bruno Mountain.

She was doing just that shortly after Crocker Land Company made its announced intention to develop the 3600-acre Visitation Rancho property.

The South San Francisco housewife was quite upset by the proposal. So much so, that she vowed then and there that development would not be completed without a fight.

At that moment Save the Mountain was formed, and it has been a thorn in the developer's side ever since.

There's no doubt that the Crocker interests weren't prepared for opposition. But when they stirred Mrs. Higgins they got the proverbial tiger by the tail.

She is the epitome of all those persons who contend development is an unnecessary raping of the environment.

What hurt even more possibly is that the development as proposed would wipe out a promised regional park in the virgin saddle area of the mountain.

Even now with overtures by the developer, saying that if the people really understood the full proposal they would be for it, Mrs. Higgins is a seemingly lone bastion holding out for the original promised regional park.

That may be because she's the most vocal on the subject.

Admittedly she is not alone in her fight, and the Crocker interests are vitally aware of this fact. The Sierra Club and every other ecological group is involved.

Evidence of their activity was prevalent in leaflet form (as well as physical) at the Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) meeting yesterday in Daly City.

"Will we have out regional park?" was the question put forward. Then there was reference to a joint meeting of the Regional Planning Commission and Parks Commission set for Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Burlingame City Hall.

"Don't let our public officials sell out to Foremost-McKesson (Crocker). You can make a difference! Attend. Support the Regional Park Plan for San Bruno Mountain."

This is the force fighting Crocker Land Company. It is a voice that has been heard and listened to by the developer. It has caused them to take a new look at their original proposal and to change it to meet ecological demands.

But at this point, at least one individual, who undoubtedly represents many others, is not satisfied and won't be until the North County gets what is considered its proper and promised regional park.

Mrs. Higgins is sticking to her guns, and one of her first fighting statements still rings clear: "The people saved the bay, can the people now save San Bruno Mountain?"

The fire at 15 San Fernando Way kept firemen at the scene for more than three hours and resulted in the longest single hose lay ever used to combat a major blaze in the city — 1400 feet.

No one was injured and fire investigators said the buildings had no monetary value.

The structures were scheduled to be cleared away Monday to make way for future expansion of the hospital, it was understood.

First alarm was received at the Central Station about 9:30 p.m. Subsequent alarms went out shortly after.

Battalion Chief Mel Hansen said the 1400-foot-long hose lay from a hydrant to the fire "was the longest single hose lay I've seen in 29 years."

Lovett's first known run-in with the law was reported in 1963 when he allegedly wrote out a court order to gain custody of his 19-month-old child from his 21-year-old estranged wife.

Former Newsmaker

Arrested in Daly City

A former Daly City resident who has been in and out of the news on an international scale during the past nine years was back in the news again.

William W. Lovett, 32, of 4442 Mission Street, San Francisco, was arrested in Daly City and charged with five counts of possession of LSD.

He was scheduled to appear before a U.S. Magistrate in San Francisco this morning and was held in lieu of $100,000 bail.

Lovett was arrested by East German police in Leipzig, Germany in 1967 and charged with causing an accident in which ten persons were seriously injured. The East German authorities also accused him of being a CIA agent for the United States.

He served 27 months in prison and was released along with three political prisoners in February, 1969.

Once across the border in West Germany, immediately after his release, police in Hanover arrested Lovett and charged him with fraud on Feb. 9, 1969.

The former Daly City volunteer fireman did not get the child. He appeared before municipal judge Charles Becker instead and was instructed by the court not to attempt further contact with his ex-wife.

January 25, Lovett denied he was married. He noted he was "single" on the arrest sheet.

He was arrested at a friend's apartment at 107 East Moltke Street at 2:30 p.m. without a struggle, according to Detective Sergeant John Kolbmann.

Detectives Tom Barner, John Moore and Officer John Kirby, accompanied by agents of the Federal Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, made the arrest on the basis of several New York City warrants.

The 31-page package of 33 proposals for the 1972 negotiating session was submitted by Mrs. Barbara Olds, chairman of the Certificated Employee Council.

Among the recommendations were:

A salary increase of 5.5 percent for all teachers.

Increasing group life insurance for all teachers to $10,000.

Setting aside a minimum day each week for the purpose of curriculum development and articulation.

The payment of women coaches for after-school sports ranging from $468 for high school fencing to $364 for junior high school volleyball.

Providing full family coverage for group dental insurance.

LAFCO chairman Maurice Hamilton said the Commission could not dictate conditions and was meeting only to determine what city would be most suitable for the mountain to annex.

Without the Industrial Park, officials of all three cities have said they could not afford to annex additional "bedrooms."

Citing reasons for Crocker's annexation preference, Calton said Brisbane is surrounded by the Visitation Rancho property "and is most directly affected by any development, including parks."

"It is also immediately adjacent to the existing Crocker Industrial Park and already provides services to it; it can extend its services more easily and efficiently than other cities, its tax benefits from Visitation Rancho would be more pronounced than would those from other nearby cities," Calton said.

One member of the Brisbane City council protested any LAFCO determination that would put the mountain in the bayside community's sphere.

S.S.F. Teacher Raise Costs $1,500,000

A 1972-73 pay package for teachers in the South San Francisco Unified School District has been estimated by the district to cost $1.5 million.

D.C. Portable Rooms Criticized

By FRANK LAPIERRE

The Jefferson Elementary School District in Daly City may be in violation of State laws governing the construction of portable classrooms, superintendent Frank L. Greenwood said Jan. 25.

And Greenwood admitted the portables have possibly failed to meet State statutes on location and safety.

The district now has 22 such units used as classrooms.

Eighteen of these units are located at Fernando Rivera and have come in for strong criticism from Board member Beverly Forrester in recent weeks.

Trustees Dorothy Adams and Mrs. Forrester requested a written opinion from District Attorney Keith Sorenson's office last August. To date there has been no written response from that office.

However, Greenwood informed the three members of the Board present at the January 25 meeting that he has had several discussions with representatives of both the District Attorney's Office and the State Office of Architecture and Construction regarding the matter.

In a heated discussion on the issue Tuesday, Mrs. Forrester chided Greenwood for not initially notifying the State about the portables.

In their letter to Sorenson, trustees Adams and Forrester claim they were not aware the classrooms had been obtained from Speedspace, Inc. on a seven year lease-purchase plan at $16,198 per year.

"Were you aware of the Law (governing construction of such structures)? Was it an oversight?" Mrs. Forrester asked Greenwood.

Greenwood said he was presently preparing material to justify the portables along with reasons why his office had failed to inform the State of the added rooms.

He indicated there were "certain ramifications" as to why the State classrooms were kept from the State.

But trustee Forrester, after informing the small audience attending the session how she first came across the purchase of the portables, kept interrupting Greenwood's presentation.

Later, outside the meeting room, Greenwood explained that one of the main reasons he did not report the portables to the state was because he did not want the district charged with something they might never own.

He said some portables were leased using Federal and state funds.

"I didn't want these charged to the district and then have them later revert back to the government," he said.

Did he foresee any difficulties bringing the portables up to code and meeting the state statutes?

"None," Greenwood replied. Mrs. Forrester earlier said the cost to taxpayers "may be great" in order to bring them up to code.

The classrooms, in most cases, have only one door even though the square footage dictates that two doors should be in each room. Also, at least one room—the art class—has no water.

The Board accepted Greenwood's suggestion that the engineering firm of Art Sedgewick of San Francisco be retained for some $3,600 to do an indepth study of all school facilities in the district and present the findings to the necessary state agencies.

Along with the findings the school district will send requests for approval of the portables, Greenwood said.

Teen Center May Become a Library

By JACK BIK

A building converted from a Civil Defense storehouse into the Skyline Teen Center at a cost of $9,000 and a lot of hard work, is now being investigated for conversion to a neighborhood library.

In making the motion, at the January 24 council meeting, Councilman Tony Governale said the building is not being utilized "and I see no way of getting a program started." The site was superb, he added.

Councilman George Corey backed the idea of a library, but expressed doubt that the building — one time a construction shack for the Hilton Hotel — was suitable.

Ruth Harris of Bennington Drive asked that the building be placed under the Parks and Recreation Commission to develop as a teen center.

"It has been under the Parks and Recreation Commission for the past 2½ months," Governale retorted, "and they haven't done anything with it."

"I still think there is a great need for it," she said.

"The kids just are not responding to it," added Councilwoman Margaret Kozkowski.

In other action, the councilmen: —Authorized the city manager to call for bids for underground extension of the fire alarm system and cable-TV line on Sneath Lane, from El Camino to Cherry Avenue.

—Received notification from the California Council on Intergovernmental Relations that the city's application for funds, to hire a consultant to prepare an open space and conservation element to the general plan, has been denied, because federal grant funds have run out.

Mutual Aid In Pacifica

Pacifica executed an agreement recently with the California Division of Forestry for mutual aid fire protection.

The agreement is effective February 1 and is for a 5-year period.

Pacifican Will Not Seek Post

Pacifican Councilman Dan Modena has confirmed that he will not seek re-election thereby assuring at least one new face on that coasts community's official body.

Modena, who was first elected to fill out a one-year term then re-elected for a full term, gave health and family reasons for his decision, which really comes as no surprise.

Asked whether he intends to support anyone in particular to fill the seat he is vacating he said, "Not at this time." Modena did say he intends to support Grace McCarthy in her re-election bid, however.

Mrs. McCarthy and Modena are the only Pacifica council members up for re-election. Councilman Nick Gust has indicated he would resign (he has two years remaining) and open another seat. It appears this will not be the case, however.

Modena, a devoted family man, said he did not want to put in another four years on the council because "it's just too long for my family."

The 38-year-old councilman also is recuperating from a severe bout with typhoid with complications.

Jewish Arbor Day Scheduled

Congregation B'nai Israel will observe Jewish Arbor Day at services on Friday.

Arbor Day, or Tu B'Shevat, is also called the New Year of Trees. In Israel school children use the day for planting trees to reforest their country.

In the Diaspora, it is used as an occasion for stressing the significance of the upbuilding of Israel.

Thornton HS 4 Selected Students Get From Skyline New Service For Awards

Mrs. Pat Egli, Career Center assistant at Thornton High School, reports that a complete career testing and counseling service is being provided for senior students at Thornton.

The testing is for students who plan careers which do not require a college degree.

In conjunction with guidance counselor Mrs. Peterson, Mrs. Egli recently administered the Ohio Vocational Interest Survey and the Dailey Technical and Scholastic Test to 30 Thornton High School seniors.

The OVIS is an occupational interest measurement that provides the means for students to explore 21,741 jobs in the world of work.

The Dailey Technical and Scholastic Tests are designed to measure the potential of the students for a wide range of occupations.

Mrs. Egli said that the Ohio Vocational Interest Survey and the Dailey TST were furnished, with scoring service, by Career Testing and Development of Phoenix, Ariz., without charge either to school or student.

In addition to providing testing services, the career center at Thornton has hundreds of pamphlets, filmstrips, and films available to students who wish to explore career opportunities.

Four talented and diverse individuals will be Skyline College's representatives in the Bank of America's 1971-1972 Community College Awards Program.

This year's representatives from Skyline:

Mrs. Barbara Glover of Pacifica, a mother of a 13-year-old daughter — will represent Skyline College in the Technical-Vocational field. She is currently enrolled as a cosmetology major and plans to own her own beauty salon and teach in a school of cosmetology.

Tom Rumolo of South San Francisco, a pre-medical student who plans to attend either Stanford University or University of California (Berkeley). He will represent Skyline College in the Science-Engineering field. He is a chemistry major and secured his interest in the field of medicine while in the Army Reserves when he came in contact with wounded and crippled young men.

Aldo Tesi, Jr., of Daly City, a self-employed businessman and a member of the college's first golf team. Aldo will represent the college in the business section. He started his own janitorial business to get a feel of the business world and sought to apply his own ideas concerning employee motivation and his own ideas on marketing as it affects the consumer.

Kathy Caranlik of South San Francisco will represent Skyline College in the areas of social science-humanities. Kathy is the associated editor of the Skyline Press and an English major.

PAINTING CLASS

Terra Nova Topics

By Rockie Montenegro

Capacity crowds and two sold out nights greeted the TN Music Department's smash-hit performance of the popular rock-opera "Jesus Christ, Superstar," which was held January 27-29 at the people-packed TN cafeteria.

"Superstar," which has been a best-selling album and successful Broadway play, tells the story of Christ and his betrayal, through modern lyrics and swinging music.

Terra Nova's production was directed under the skillful hands of TN music teacher John Bentley, and was met with tremendous success and audience response.

The entire cast of 40 gave an excellent performance, with some of the cast members dishing out their parts with remarkable talent and professional polish that seemed almost out of place in a high school cafeteria.

King Herod, played by Mike Valerio, was a show-stopper. His ragtime, schmaltzy rendition of "King Herod's Song" ("So you are the Christ, prove to me that you're no fool, walk across my swimming pool...") made the best of his singing, dancing, and acting ability. This character portrayal was one of the most outstanding, certainly the most colorful, and he received ovations throughout his performance.

Jesus Christ, played by singing newcomer Doug McCoy, was also an excellent performer, and proved McCoy to be the possessor of a powerful voice and much singing talent. He convincingly portrayed his character, and his treatment of the dramatic scenes was compassionate.

Joe Tassi, who played the part of Judas Iscariot, also gave a powerful performance, and his dynamic singing voice (which one girl in the audience described as "sexy") did justice to his major singing role.

Mary Magdalene, the prostitute, was played by freshman Vickie Porche, who gave a satisfactory performance and displayed a very promising singing voice. Hers was the only leading female role.

Other members of the cast and their roles were: Earl Johnson as Pontius Pilate, Steve Peterson as Simon Zealotes and Peter, Skip Delisle as Annas, Roland Paquette as Caiaphas, Ed Crandall, Tom Oltz and Cathy Goff as the Priests, and Lois Crawford as the Maid by the Fire.

Special lighting effects were done by TN art teacher Arlene Kaiser, and student director was Bobby Tassi.

Brushmobile To Be at DC's Serramonte Shop Center

During National Dental Health Week, the San Mateo County Dental Society's unique Brushmobile will be on public display at Serramonte Shopping Center on February 8.

Parents may see and hear Dudley the Dragon's tips on proper brushing techniques at one of the 16 special sinks, complete with mirrors, stereo earphones and lovely College of San Mateo Dental assisting student stewardesses, who help the children on their visits.

This unusual remodelled schoolbus, the first of its kind anywhere, is the brainchild of a San Mateo dentist. His idea was wholeheartedly supported by the dentists of San Mateo County, who formed the Health on Wheels committee to rebuild the bus into a modern mobile classroom. Several local businesses contributed labor and parts, and the dentists themselves have contributed almost all the financing and uncounted hours of work to make the Brushmobile a comfortable and attractive public education aid for teaching preventive dentistry.

Emil Arnold will be the guest performer at the Westlake Senior Citizens club meeting at 10 a.m., according to word from Mrs. Frank Specht, publicity chairman.

Arnold, who will recount a number of amusing stories and tell some of the jokes from his collection of humor, is the "discovery" of club president Mrs. Helen Harbuck. Mrs. Harbuck, is convinced that there is considerable hidden talent within the club and she is conducting a talent search in an effort to encourage talented members to share their special skills with others.

Mrs. Verl Childs and Edwin Turnquist, other "Harbuck Discoveries" recently sang for the members and provided all with a delightful afternoon.

Mrs. Specht invites anyone in the over 50 bracket to drop by the Westlake Baptist Church Social hall, located at Southgate and Elmwood, today and enjoy the comedy presentation of Emil Arnold. No reservations are necessary.

MRS. EVELYN FITZGERALD will be in charge of the Mary's Help Hospital Guild's delegation to the California Hospital Association Convention for Volunteers.

This year the convocation will be held on February 9, 10 and 11 in San Francisco's Jack Tar Hotel.

Guild members who will be attending any of the sessions are asked to contact Mrs. FitzGerald, 586-2481.

MRS. FRANK GREENWOOD entertained a number of members of the North Peninsula Circle for the Florence Crittenton Home at a luncheon in her home this past week.

Among those attending the gathering were board members Mrs. Charles Poggio, (who was excited about her trip to the islands), Mrs. Frank Specht, Mrs. Marie Meyers, Mrs. Ray Vukich, Mrs. Richard Ceceoni, Mrs. James Kennebaugh and Mrs. Murray Freedman.

Also attending were Mrs. Paul Hupf, Mrs. Rose Franco, Mrs. Michael Orlick, Mrs. John Vollers, Mrs. Jerry Stringer, Mrs. Eugene Crandall, Mrs. Edward Odenthal and Mrs. Albert Teglia.

REFERRING BACK to the jaunt taken by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Poggio and Mr. and Mrs. Aldo Mori, the two couples jetted to the islands for a leisurely look about Honolulu where they enjoyed the Polynesian Cultural Center and then they island hopped to Kauai for additional sight seeing before they returned home.

MARIANNE COSS will be the commentator for Saturday's Sew and Show at the Holy Angels Parish Hall. Mrs. George Sigigie, publicity chairman, reports that Mrs. Coss of Marianne's Fashions and Fabrics in Westlake and Pacifica, will be lending her expertise to the presentation of fashions made and modeled by ladies of the parish.

Mrs. Billy Smith is the chairman of the program, which will include a dessert with coffee, tea or punch, and she has released the names of the models who will be taking part.

Among those showing their handiwork will be Mrs. Madge McCloskey, Mrs. Beverly Leahy, Mrs. Julia Pedreddi, Mrs. Barbara Reich, Mrs. Rhna Gonzales, Mrs. Patricia Dal Porto, Mrs. Wilma Van Aken, and Mrs. Virginia Simon.

Several eighth grade girls will be modelling and working as hostesses during the afternoon. Included in the hostess-model category will be Joan Scarpino, Rose Marie Caserza, Laurie Gomez and Karen Leahy.

The deadline for reservations will be today and anyone interested in tickets is asked to call Mrs. Smith as soon as possible. Reservations are available for a donation of $1.50 per adult and 75c for children under 12 years of age.

MRS. DONALD GIANFERMO, publicity chairwoman for the Westlake Catholic Women reports that the plans are all completed for the eighteenth annual fashion show and luncheon to be given by the Westlake Catholic Women on February 12.

The San Francisco scene is the theme chosen by Mrs. Francis J. Kelly, this year's chairman.

Mrs. Gianfermo indicates that Mrs. Kelly has planned many surprises for the show and this promises to be the most imaginative afternoon the Westlake Catholic Women have ever presented.

Roy Hackett, famous for his Nob Hill Music which is synonymous with the San Francisco scene, will provide the musical accompaniment for the afternoon's activities.

Reservations are still available from the reservations chairmen, Mrs. Albert Modena and Mrs. Harry Kanelopoulos. Tickets are just $6 per person and guests will have the fun of friendly chit chat, a lovely luncheon, beautiful music and fantastic clothes from the two San Francisco stores of Livingstons. During the afternoon three grand prizes will be awarded and over 50 door prizes will be distributed.

Mrs. Gianfermo reminds those interested in the Our Lady of Mercy Parish that investment tickets are being sold in conjunction with the show and anyone wishing to contribute may purchase a ticket from Mrs. Robert Walker or Mrs. William Mahoney.

For the first time in the history of the Daly City Girl Scout Association's membership in the San Francisco Bay Girl Scout Council, the year's pre-camp training week was devoted basically to programming for girls, because of the excellent site preparation work done previously as a result of the work of such site chairmen as Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Stewart of Daly City, site chairmen for Twin Canyons Camp.

Family Forum 'Love and Learning' At Skyline

One of Skyline College's unique short course offerings this spring semester will be a six-week class entitled "Love and Learning."

Taught by Daniel Poppers of the Millbrae School District, the course will be given beginning February 16 at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Room of the Millbrae Library. A serious look at a very important subject, the course carries an optional one unit of college credit.

Poppers says that he believes his class would be of special interest to teachers, psychologists, parents and individuals interested in mental health, but recommends it to "anyone who cares about the role of love in their lives."

A writer and educational consultant in psychology, Poppers combines a solid professional background with a real enthusiasm for his subject.

The fee for this six-week course is $4.

Another Community Services short course offering, "Interior Design: A Personal Approach to Home Decoration," has been sold out, according to Community Services Assistant Patricia Patterson. "This is the third semester in a row that this popular class has sold out," she said. However other short courses on religion and parent-child relationships still have openings.

Good morning, good cooks. Last week's column ended with the promise of a recipe for a delicious dessert... not only delicious but easy to make and very pretty, too. Here tis.

MALLO-MINT SQUARES

1/2 pint whipping cream
1 cup crushed peppermint stick candy
1 cup miniature marshmallows
16 to 18 graham crackers
Whip the half pint cream. Fold in the cup of crushed peppermint candy. (Be sure to crush the candy very fine.) Add the cup marshmallows and mix well.
Crush the 16 graham crackers. Sprinkle about half of the crumbs into the bottom of an 8x8-inch pan. Pour the whipped cream mixture over crumbs and top with the remaining crumbs. Chill about 6 hours.
As you can see by the list of ingredients, this is a very rich dessert, hence small servings are indicated. Serves 10 to 12.

Every homemaker should have a recipe for a really tasty meat loaf in her recipe files. A budget stretcher, it combines ground meat with seasonings and a sauce that is delicious hot. When cold it has the added attraction of making a tasty sandwich meat for lunches.

I've been a meat loaf fancier for many years. The first meal I ever cooked as a girl featured this entree. So whenever I find a new recipe or an old recipe with a new touch, my family has meat loaf for dinner that night.

SAUCY MEAT LOAF

1 pound ground beef
1/4 pound sausage
1 cup soft bread crumbs
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 cup finely chopped onion
1/4 teaspoon paprika
2-slices bacon
Tear one slice bread into very small pieces. (This makes just about one cup soft crumbs.) Soak in one cup milk. Place the one pound ground beef, one-fourth pound sausage, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, paprika and the fourth cup chopped onion in mixing bowl. Add the milk-soaked bread and mix thoroughly. Shape into loaf and place in baking pan. Spread the two slices bacon longways on the loaf.
Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Baking time one hour.
Spoon about half the sauce over loaf and place in oven. After one-half hour's baking, remove loaf and spoon the remaining sauce over top. Return to oven to bake one-half hour longer.

PIQUANT SAUCE

1/2 cup tomato catsup
3 Tablespoons brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon dry mustard
3 Tablespoons vinegar
In small sauce pan combine the half cup catsup, three tablespoons brown sugar, half teaspoon nutmeg, one teaspoon mustard and three tablespoons vinegar. Mix together and cook about 5 minutes.

Along with this meat loaf I served this corn soufflé.

CORN SOUFFLE

1/4 cup butter
1/4 cup flour
1 cup milk
1 can cream style corn, 1 lb.
4 eggs, separated
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup grated yellow cheese
1/2 teaspoon caraway seed
Melt the fourth cup butter in medium saucepan, add the fourth cup flour and mix well. Stir in the one cup milk and one pound creamed corn. Cook, stirring until mixture thickens. Remove from heat. Add the four well-beaten egg yolks, half teaspoon salt, half cup grated cheese and half teaspoon caraway seed. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites.
Bake in greased 2-quart casserole at 325 degrees until set, about 45 minutes. Serves 6.

Paul Walter Wraps Up the Girl Scout SME Campaign

"As a father who is pleased with my daughter's growth, opportunities and gained maturity in Scouting this will be my chance to express my thanks," said Paul Walters upon his appointment as SME Coordinator for the Daly City Girl Scout Association.

The SME, Sustaining Membership Enrollment, drive lasts until February 5, and is a special plea to parents and friends of Scouting to make up the deficit between income from UBAC, cookie and calendar sales, camp fees and actual operating expenses of the Council.

"The adults who can be involved directly as leaders, service team members, consultants, etc., give of more than their time. More parents can be involved indirectly by fund-raising," Walters recently stated.

He became interested in this fund-raising project when his wife became "deeply involved with the girls" and wants to dispell the image that Girl Scouting is normally a mother-daughter tie-in.

"Dads for Daughters" is a coming thing, he believes — especially for a man with three daughters. His wife is a Cadette, middle daughter a Junior Girl Scout and the baby served as Daly City's calendar poster girl for 1971.

OLPH Mothers Schedule Sale

Mrs. Louella Flaherty, president of Our Lady of Perpetual Help Mothers' Club, is holding a rummage sale on February 12-13, at the school hall, 80 Wellington Avenue, Daly City. Louella and all her co-officers are sharing chairmanship of the sale.

Anybody with usable discards should call Mrs. Flaherty (756-20 6) or Carol Klatt (992-0125) for pickup.

DC Girl Scout Camp Program Said Changing

For the first time in the history of the Daly City Girl Scout Association's membership in the San Francisco Bay Girl Scout Council, the year's pre-camp training week was devoted basically to programming for girls, because of the excellent site preparation work done previously as a result of the work of such site chairmen as Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Stewart of Daly City, site chairmen for Twin Canyons Camp.

Also for the first time in 1971-72, the resident camp program is changing. 1971 saw the operation of interest groups dealing with program specialization on such topics as survival cookery, life saving, dramatics, synchronized swimming, astronomy, arts and crafts, and folk dancing.
Local girls, including over 50 campership Daly City area youngsters, enjoyed traditional activities also. The emphases included activities as diversified as international dinners and relay races for flattening cans. Two local campsites were completely turned over to recycling programs.

Boy Scouts Will Launch Campaign

The Scout Family phase of the San Mateo County Sustaining Membership Enrollment will be launched February 3-5 according to Robert C. Moore, council chairman.

Kick-off meetings will be held in each of the six districts of the council with more than one-thousand key volunteers set to contact parents and boys. Boy Scouting in San Mateo County includes 384 sponsoring institutions and more than 16,000 registered boys and leaders.

The United Bay Area Crusade provides about forty percent of the financial needs for the yearly Scout program of San Mateo County. The balance of funds are secured from former Scouts, interested business men and companies, as well as from the parents of boys currently registered in the program. The goal for sustaining membership in 1972 is $115,000 according to Albert J. Horn, council president.

Every effort must be made according to Horn, to secure the needed memberships necessary for the ongoing Scout program in San Mateo County. Horn stated that the executive board of the council and the professional staff had set the example of going over their goal in support of the 1972 enrollment.

Memberships are $20 and up and each membership will provide a full year of Scouting for a boy in San Mateo County. Kick-off meetings and the key men who will assist in the solicitation are as follows:

The couple will live in San Mateo.

Schools Selecting B of A Scholars

Area high schools are selecting outstanding students to compete in the 25th annual Bank of America Achievement Awards program.

The selection by individual school faculty committees is the first step in what will ultimately result in cash awards of $1000 to 20 of Northern California's finest high school seniors.

In all, 1972 will see Bank of America awarding 9,000 certificates, 2,600 plaques and over $210,000 in cash to seniors throughout the state, according to Al Race, vice president and manager of the bank's San Bruno branch.

He is serving as coordinator for local competition in which the following high schools are participating: Capuchino, Crestmoor, El Camino, Jefferson, Oceana, Serramonte, South San Francisco, Terra Nova and Westmoor.

"Plaque award winners from each school have the opportunity to advance to zone competition in San Bruno on March 22, Race pointed out.

"Students will be judged on the basis of scholastic achievement, extracurricular activities, and interviews before a panel of educators and civic leaders. The top student in each of four fields — fine arts, liberal arts, science and mathematics, and vocational arts — will then advance to the final event.

"This year's final event will take place May 4 in San Francisco.

HELPING TO GATHER items for the February 12-13 rummage sale by the Our Lady of Perpetual Help women in Daly City are (left to right) Carol Klatt, Ramona Murrey, Lucrecia Martin, and Linda Morales, all officers of the OLPH Mothers Club. Any of them may be contacted for details.

Stewardess Talks at Southwood

The Jeff Scene

By SUE MCALLISTER

Miss Alice Musbach, United Air Lines stewardess, spoke to W. J. Maher's first period English-journalism class at Southwood Junior High School recently.

Miss Musbach explained the qualifications which a boy or girl needs to become a steward or stewardess with United Air Lines and the students also heard of some of the experiences Miss Musbach has had since working for United Air Lines.

Miss Musbach has been a stewardess with United Air Lines 4½ years. Prior to this, she attended the College of San Mateo. She is a graduate of South San Francisco High School.

The students heard about the duties one assumes when becoming a stewardess or steward with a large air carrier. When flying, an individual serves meals and beverages, makes the passengers feel relaxed on the flight, and is prepared to handle any emergencies that may arise during the trip. The students also heard about other benefits one receives, such as passes to travel on United and other airlines to countries around the world.

Staff members asked questions which had come to mind while Miss Musbach was giving her presentation.

One student remarked, "People who say that a stewardess is just a beautiful waitress are quite wrong!"

Newcomers to Meet in Bruno

The San Bruno Newcomer's Club will meet on February 7 at 8 p.m. at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, 1600 Santa Lucia Avenue, San Bruno.

Guest speaker, Neil Faby of Daly City, will show slides and talk about earthquakes.

Husbands are invited to attend the meeting with their wives.

Mrs. B. R. Parker (583-2318) has details.

Style Show

The eighteenth annual fashion show and luncheon sponsored by the Westlake Catholic Women will be held February 12 in the grand ballroom of the Fairmont Hotel.

Fashions will be by Livingston of Grant Avenue and Stonestown.

Gift From Friends of DC Library

Following its practice of presenting a useful gift to local libraries, the Friends of the Daly City Library have installed a Line-O-Scribe machine in the Westlake branch of the Daly City Public Library.

Speaking for the Friends of the Library organization, Mrs. Vinton Stratton said:

"This machine provides the library staff with a new medium of contact with its patrons — thus it represents the purposes of our organization which are to aid in the material development of the library and to interpret the library to the community."

Mrs. Stratton reported that the Friends of the Library made its first donation in 1956 and has made a gift each year since then. As a result of such gifts, many integral parts of the library's services were instituted, among them the collection of phonograph records and circulating prints of great art.

In 1965 the Friends group presented the library with funds for the initial collection at the Bayshore branch. In 1963 the gift included the bulletin boards and display cases in the Westlake library. In 1966 the gift was a collection of large-print books that will correlate with a library for the visually handicapped that was funded recently by the Daly City Host Lion's Club. In 1962 a set of topographical maps of the Bay Area constituted the gift. In 1970 the gift was a roll-away resource center for both the John D. Daly and the Westlake branch libraries.

In addition to these gifts, Mrs. Stratton said, the Friends of the Library have established a memorial fund so individuals and groups may donate books in memory of persons who have died.

According to the city librarian, many valuable books have been added because of the memorial fund.

Jeff Parent Advisory Unit Has Meeting

The Parent Advisory Committee of the Jefferson High School Elementary Secondary Education Act project met recently at the school.

David Peebles, project coordinator, led the discussion in program changes for the junior section for the fourthcoming semester.

The remainder of the meeting was led by Miss Jeannine Hodge, consultant, who conducted workshop techniques concerning aggression. Procedures were developed and parents, along with students were shown alternate ways in which to solve mutual problems.

Students who attended and participated in the evening's program were Jackie Hastings, Liz Rosa, Teter McCrum, Pam Wooten, Diane Proctor and Mike Hara.

The E.S.E.A. is funded through federal monies, Title I. The guidelines state that an advisory committee must function throughout the year.

The next meeting will be held on February 15 at 7:30 p.m. in Room 222 at the school.

Meeting Set; Queen Chosen

The cultural program will be presented by Mrs. Ryan Dawdy of San Bruno on the subject of "Civic Responsibilities."

At a previous meeting, Mrs. Frantz Cox of Pacifica was chosen Valentine Queen and will represent the chapter at the annual Valentine Ball sponsored by the Northern Peninsula Inter-City Council.

WHAT'S GOING on above? Although they're hard to see in this picture, those small white spots are sponges, wet with water for the express purpose of getting Miss Diane Burke, a Benjamin Franklin (Daly City) science teacher drenched. Miss Burke's eighth grade class is raising funds for a trip to Southern California. Vice Principal Jim Sharpen also was thrown at. The mass of faces seems to indicate an interest in drubbing the teacher.

Barbara Bladen

Film Based on Personal Growth

When Renee Taylor and Joseph Bologna wrote the story of their courtship and marriage, they made up their minds they'd star in the film version. Friend Elaine May encouraged them also.

They'd written one other screenplay, "Lovers and Other Strangers," which made it to Broadway but they didn't get to play the roles.

So when "Made For Each Other" was bought by Twentieth Century Fox Films, they held out. Joe hadn't acted since college (although he appeared in the Broadway version) and Goldie Hawn was the favorite of the studio. And then Barbara Steisand and Elliot Gould, who were still dating, wanted to buy the property.

Forget it. The couple who wrote it and acted in it are better than any other two "big name stars" could ever be. And for good reason.

"I began writing it as a woman's story. Then Joe said he'd say it as a woman's story. So we refer to it as a 'we' story," the vivacious blonde stage and television personality told us.

Miss Taylor had been a regular on talk shows such as Jack Paar and Merv Griffin. She wasn't a loser, as she depicts herself in the film but wasn't exactly a winner either. A native of the Bronx, she met Bologna, a native of Brooklyn, not at a group encounter session (as it appears in the film) but as budding writers. They've since joined a married couples group and believe in it wholeheartedly.

Bologna was directing TV commercials and when he made the commitment to marry Renee, told her she'd have to give up all her other activities and settle down to writing of her own experiences. The marriage is six years old and they've made it on a personal, as well as a professional level.

"Most of the film is based on our personal growth. Very few people are really 'made for each other,' or see each other across the crowded room and 'know.' You only walk into the sunset with a horse and then you take your chances," the actress explained.

"I'd worked on the shows that allowed me to meet all my idols. Lana Turner, Paulette Goddard and Rita Hayworth never became women, only older girls. When I met Joe he said who are you? 'Sammy Celebrity?' And I said, 'I'm famous.' And he said, 'So what.' So I quit."

He countered with, "we're a great team. Writing is the hardest thing there is but the most fun. You have to have total control. We have a house in Woodstock and kid each other it only takes two weeks to write a film. Actually, it takes a year or more but we don't count all the hassles and extra time."

"I call Renee dynamite because she can blast through a problem. She has no sense of structure and never knows the ending, but has a great capacity for working. I have to solve a problem before I begin writing," he said.

Their next film will probably be directed by Elaine May, an old friend. It's about a woman who only feels she's really happy if she has more closets, or if the family room is finished. And they may shoot it in California because the story is not dependent on a city, and if "you can't make it in San Francisco, you'll have the face the truth about yourself or else face the gas pipe because nothing else is left."

Debate Festival
At Serramonte

Daly City's Serramonte High School played host to a district debate festival recently with about 60 teams discussing the issue, "Resolve that the jury system in the United States should be appreciably changed."

Here were teen-agers speaking of the problems of grand juries and of civil courts. All of them were American kids who care about "the system," and in their speeches indicated their willingness to refine it, alter it and make it work. Not one came to denounce the American system of justice, but every one of them indicated that he or she is aware of its shortcomings as well as its good features.

IN A HIGH SCHOOL DEBATE there are two speakers for the affirmative and two for the negative. Each must make an eight-minute speech and a four-minute rebuttal, and each must submit to three minutes of questioning by one of his opponents.

Each is judged on the contents of his speech, his ability to argue logically and to logically shoot down his opponents' argument. What's more, each is judged on his conduct, on his self control, his ability to use his voice and on his speaking habits.

Over the years high school debaters have discussed the gravest problems before the country.

With statistics and quotations that would tongue-tie a congressman, they have addressed themselves to such issues as U.S. intervention in the Caribbean, land use in the United States, protecting our environment and the problems of mass transportation.

Debate is but one activity that is coached by a high school speed department. During the school year there are contests in extemporaneous speaking, impromptu speaking, dramatic interpretation, oratory, humorous interpretation, and programmed reading.

TO PREPARE for the contest students are required to spend many hours, most of them after school hours, gathering information and reducing it to logic that is equal to that heard in law courts. Imagine a 10-year-old learning to repeat by heart Webster's Defense of the Constitution, or Washington's Farewell Address and then presenting it in a manner that will outclass that of any other contestants.

Imagine a high school junior who is so well trained and well informed he can speak on a subject that he draws from a hat just three minutes before he must speak before a judge.

Imagine a debator not yet 16 years that can speak so well he draws the admiration of the district governor of Toastmaster International.

Surely, such young persons will have a place among tomorrow's leaders. Today, I can think of six men I met in a debate festival 30 years ago. One is a member of Congress, one is a bank president, one is a dean in a great university, one has been a candidate for the governorship of his state, one is a medical doctor and the other is a mayor of his city.

Each believes the training he received in speech contests helped his career.

Exposure Political Name of Game

IN POLITICS, the name of the game is exposure.

The more you get, supposedly the better your chances of being elected, or re-elected, as the case may be. Granted it must be exposure which places one in a favorable light.

This adage will be put to the torrid test with gusto until after the April municipal elections, with candidates already beginning to bend over backwards to let the public know they are around.

In South San Francisco, a new outlet — cable television — will have the opportunity to prove its worth as a vehicle for exposure.

PROGRAM DIRECTOR

David DaPrato, of the city's Western TV Cable franchise, says every council meeting from now until the election will be taped, for replay the day after the meeting. He says taping of candidate's nights also are planned, and hopefully that moment of truth — when ballots are counted.

Western TV Cable has some 8,000 hookups, which means a possibility of reaching 76 percent of all television households in South San Francisco. No one knows, of course, how many of these people watch the cable system, or whether they vote.

Videotaping of a South San Francisco council meeting was first done last June. It was supposedly an experiment, and the council was to decide after viewing the results whether to make videotaping a regular procedure.

Taxpayer money was used to install the necessary lighting for television cameras.

The last council meeting in January was the second time the cameras rolled. DaPrato says he'd like to cover the meetings live. There is, however, no editing of the video taped film in the delayed broadcast. But who likes reruns?

The obvious question arises as to what effect this decision to videotape all council meetings that remain before the election will have on the outcome, if any. Three councilmen are facing re-election. Will this exposure be good or bad for them?

THE CABLE SYSTEM is required to follow the Federal Communications Commission regulations on the doctrine of equal time. But videotaping a council meeting comes under the heading of "bonafide news event" and can therefore be taped without the requirement of giving opponents equal time.

DaPrato appears sincere about trying to be fair. One regular program show host had to quit the station when he filed his candidacy for council. He was not doing a program in a "news" capacity, and his continued exposure could have meant "equal time" for all candidates.

Hopefully, the candidates who have not been on the cable system before, and who aren't councilmen, will get their equal time exposure during candidates nights or on some special show DaPrato may be able to set up.

Being human, voters won't rely only on who or what they see.

Although it's often said the camera doesn't lie, it has been known to distort a viewpoint and distract the viewer. Like making him more interested in what the man on the screen is wearing than what he is saying or what he means when he says it.

Exposure works both ways. Along with the good is shown the bad. The camera reveals the honest and the phony.

You're the voter, so watch it — when you go to the polls.

Fund Decision
For DeBernardi

FLASHY FLASH — By the time you read this, gas station owner Micheal De Bernardi might have filed for a seat on the city council in Daly City.

He was defeated two years ago when voters decided it was time for a change and De Bernardi placed far down the list. There had been speculation that he wouldn't run this time around inasmuch as he had not filed a declaration of contributions and expenditures within the set time limit following the 1970 race.

But last Thursday, Superior Court Judge Mel Cohn issued an order extending DeBernardi's filing time to January 27, 1972, (oddly enough, that was last Thursday).

Cohn based his relief decision on the fact that DeBernardi claimed he had been hassling with billboard giant Foster & Kleiser over that company's charges during the last campaign. The case was heard in Oakland and DeBernardi won a favorable decision, it was understood. Total contributions received according to DeBernardi's statement were $1,450 — his expenditures were slightly more. Only six persons made up the contribution list: T. S. Blanco ($300); J. Pytel ($100); H. Doelger ($300); B. Gallagher ($250); R. H. DeBernardi ($300), and M. McDonald ($200).

HE WAS ALONE, SICK and struggling daily to make ends meet. He lived in a modest house in a Mission District (Daly City) neighborhood with his sister. He had served his country and, while his health held up, his employers. Rising taxes and the cost of living burdened the proud man until the day he died — last week.

My friend, George Phelan, was as frank and honest as anyone I shall ever have the honor of knowing again. His was not a unique situation, only one of thousands in San Mateo County.

George was a disabled senior citizen who barely scratched out a living. There was no relief from property taxes. Each year they got higher, as they do for everyone else. But in George's case he had no children, was sick and unable to work even at the most menial of jobs, and the medicines needed to keep him going were costly. Today George is resting from his life's work. They buried him at the National Cemetery in Oregon with full honors. His absence from the local scene will be personally missed.

But it's a darn shame George couldn't have found some respite from taxes while he was still around to enjoy them.

SICK CALL — Former D.C. City Treasurer Joe Lewkowicz in Mary's Help Hospital, heart attack . . . Superior Court Judge Frank Blum in MHH for checkup . . . Glen South home doing nicely . . . Al Serini, of the scavenger empire, in hospital for checkup . . . D. C. City Atty Al Polonsky recovering from abdominal surgery . . . And that dratted bug is still felling citizens all over the place.

RECENTLY WE ASKED the D.C. City Council who picks up the charge difference when a clean-up price is "negotiated." There are some cases where oversights have been made and lot owners complained about high billings they received. On occasion the billings are discussed with the property owners and the council, in a fit of friendliness, lowers the price. Who pays the difference between, say, the $100 paid to the clean-up people and the $50 charged by the city? Joe Taxpayer, that's who!

SORRY ABOUT THAT — George H. Norton of Portola Valley informs us that our referral to his group of citizens out to promote the defeat of two of the three county supervisors up for re-election this year — Jim Fitzgerald and Bill Werder — as a "South County group" is not exactly true. A membership list sent to this desk last week shows almost half of the Save Our County group's steering committee are from the North County. While conceding that Supervisor (Mrs.) Jean Fassler isn't the hardest-working environmentalist on board the Supervisors' Board she has done more than the other two, Norton explains.

DON'T FORGET — Today's "Groundhog Day" and if the little critter sees his shadow and runs back into his hole we've got six more weeks of winter. To tell you the truth if the days and nights stay cold and bright as they have in recent days, it's alright with me if he stays in that crummy hole another eight weeks.

AND SPEAKING OF DATES, how many folks forgot it was General Douglas MacArthur's birthday last Wednesday? Talk about fading away.

PHONY $20 BILLS are floating around the county. Sgt. John Kolbmann (D.C. Detective Bureau) said they're pretty good. Usually being passed at bars by girls and at shopping centers by men and women. Watch out!

MEANWHILE, OVER IN COLMA — The Shadow has learned that during a very recent meeting of that city's council, with only three members present, Councilman Glen Duncan motioned to raise the monthly salary of the chief of police — Mayor Raymond Ottoboni's young son — to $1,000 from the present $800.

Councilwoman Rena Vallerga vociferously condemned the motion, and other things and the matter died for lack of a second.

But the handwriting is now on the wall. Many citizens in open session had vowed to battle the appointment of the mayor's son to the police chief's post to the death. When they no longer showed up week after week the appointment was finally passed with Mrs. Vallerga voting the only "no."

And now Duncan has motioned for the raise, we predict that when Councilmen Earl Taylor and Wallace Honeywell are in attendance the issue of the 25 per cent pay hike will go through. Honeywell, Taylor and Duncan are incumbents whose seats are up for grabs in April.

James Halley

Into Fringes
Of Civilization

You. You walk — in the rain, the sun, the fog and the cold. You carry a gun and wear a badge. You are the reaching arm of society into the fringes of civilization. You are a police officer in America in 1972, and you wonder about your job and your life.

When it started, it seemed different. Most jobs appeared dull and police work offered an interesting lifetime. The possibilities of promotion were real, and while the pay was low, job tenure looked solid. Also, there was something about it — despite public attitudes, an officer was somebody — stood for something. In a word, it was the kind of work that offered pride.

So you walk and you ride. You have a family and live your abnormal life in the most normal way you can.

Your bargain, made through the Chief, was to serve society honestly and efficiently. You did not, when you raised your right hand a few years ago bargain for combat duty or with your life. But in the finest of fine print, as an unwritten and implied part of that agreement you did, unknowingly make that bargain.

For in a few years civilization changed. Once men walked with daily danger in the backwoods, on the prairies and on the frontiers. Now danger has moved. It can still be found in exotic places and at the outposts, but it has also relocated in the midst of modern society. For you, an officer of the law, know that physical danger has long since come to those places where men live closely together. It has come to your city, your beat, and the very block you walk.

Moreover, there is nothing you can do about it. Death looks down on you from innumerable windows. It rushes past in cars. It stalks you on the sidewalks and walks with each passerby.

Your uniform with cap and badge mark you. Nowadays some people are angry at the system and the establishment, and like it or not your clothes mark you as the arm of that system and establishment.

Moreover, it is a strange system to work for. Motivated by the highest hopes and expectations, society in recent years has done a great deal to improve the quality of individual life. But the process of change is incomplete and in ways imperfect. As a result, you find yourself caught between forces you can not control and your working conditions have seriously deteriorated.

Society, in fact, has insisted that you keep your bargain, including the bitter and unwritten part about dying, and has failed to keep its own. It wants law and order, but it also wants guns — enough guns to turn entire cities into armed camps. It wants to deter men from killing you, but it is unwilling to execute them after fair and full trial and conviction for killing you. It wants justice so badly that it sometimes forgets that justice also belongs to the victim and to you.

In your city, San Francisco, ten officers have been killed in four years. And your city is no different from the other big cities where people cluster.

So you keep your bargain and work in fear. Fear for yourself and family, but also for the people you know and like and love. For you, more than most are of, from, and with the people. You know that fear and freedom are strange companions and that the American dream of individual liberty and equality depends at bedrock upon fair and effective enforcement procedures.

Most importantly, you know that you, also, need backing help and understanding.

Our Viewpoint

Keeping the Tax Pledge

The declaration by Chancellor Clifford G. Erickson of the financially troubled San Mateo Junior College District, that the district intends to operate within its present taxing capability "for a long time to come" is a reassurance that will be welcomed by taxpayers throughout the district.

The 11-cent increase in the district's property tax limit approved by the voters last year was based upon the pledge that no further rise would be sought. Reliance upon that pledge was the chief factor in obtaining the favorable vote and breaking it would be a breach of faith.

Chancellor Erickson's statement that "we will simply have to redouble our own efforts to economize, and at the same time we certainly will also accelerate our drive for additional state support," brings out two very pertinent points.

First, it is an expression of responsibility on behalf of a taxing entity that it recognizes the plight of hard-pressed property taxpayers and is willing to do what it must do — cut expenses to meet income. A decision worthy of emulation by other bodies holding tax power.

Second, it places the blame exactly where it belongs upon state government that has failed to make good on past promises to give the Junior Colleges support equal to their needs, and has blundered into further withdrawal of support by not foreseeing the adverse effect upon the colleges attendant upon making 18-to-20-year-old students adults within the meaning of the law. This cuts the amount of state support previously payable to the colleges when the students were classified as minors.

Remedial legislation to correct this situation is being pushed and is imperative to sustain the Junior Colleges in the very big part of the state's higher education program they are carrying on.

May success attend both the Junior College District's efforts to economize and the measures to restore needed state support.

The Bike Thievery

Editor, The Post:

I fully sympathize with 13-year-old Rick's loss of his prized 10-speed bike, and with his compassionate 10-year-old sister, Carla Heaney.

My son is 15 years old and after having only second-hand bikes, we bought him a 10-speed on sale. He had it only two months, when it was stolen out of our open garage on a bright Sunday afternoon, while we were all inside the house. He has had no bike since.

I thought we were coming to a better class neighborhood when we bought our new home here in Westlake about 12 years ago. But people carry their vile habits with them like a virus, wherever they go.

Those dope addicts who are stealing these 10-speed bikes care nothing about anyone else's feelings. They sell them to support their stupid habit, which, as poetic justice will reveal, jails or kills them in an early age. They hurt us temporarily by their theft, but in the long run, they hurt themselves more. They are indeed to be pitied.

Your brother Carla, and my son may get another bike one day — but these dope addict thieves will not get another life. They who steal are truly the cursed, not us who suffer the loss by their theft. As Job in the Bible tells us, "a wicked person who oppresses others will be in trouble as long as he lives. He has no hope of escaping from darkness. His future is dark; disaster, like a powerful king, is waiting to attack him. Nothing he owns will last. If he is foolish enough to trust in wickedness when wickedness will be all he gets. Before his time is up he will wither. There will be no descendants for Godless men."

It's amazing how many public officials are telling us that we need rapid transit on the Peninsula. I don't need it, most of my friends and neighbors don't need it. We don't wish to pay for and subsidize another pork barrel operation. Let the people who want and need this service finance it through corporate tie shares or commuter surcharge rather than tax the majority for the benefit of the few. I'm certain that the airlines, Southern Pacific and downtown businesses could be persuaded to invest in a well-run transit system that will no doubt benefit them.

Short Chickens
Good for Eggs

WE'RE FULL of little items you're just dying to learn about . . . (yeah, we got sick researching them).

All fall under the Did You Know and Now Knowing Was It Worth the Suffering category?

By paying mighty close attention to some of those news releases others in the cityfied West might have roundly filed we have discovered that there are attempts now to breed a chicken with shorter legs. Yes, we too also believed it was for the purpose of giving us leg eaters a shorter squatter-thereby-plumper hunk of meat.

Not so. It's to make the hen lower to the ground so's not to break so many eggs, dumb cluck-cluck.

WE LEARNED that the average new-born baby drinks 65 gallons of milk its first year, and that the dairy industry is getting worried because a sharp decline in the number of children under five years old in California is reducing milk consumption. Mooooooo.

AND THAT the tomato once was thought to be poisonous and taboo at the dinner table. Also a rumor that eating a tomato was just-provoking (in the 1800s it got the name of "love apple") was proved unfounded. Drat-splat!

SO MUCH for aggie-culture . . . to other things.

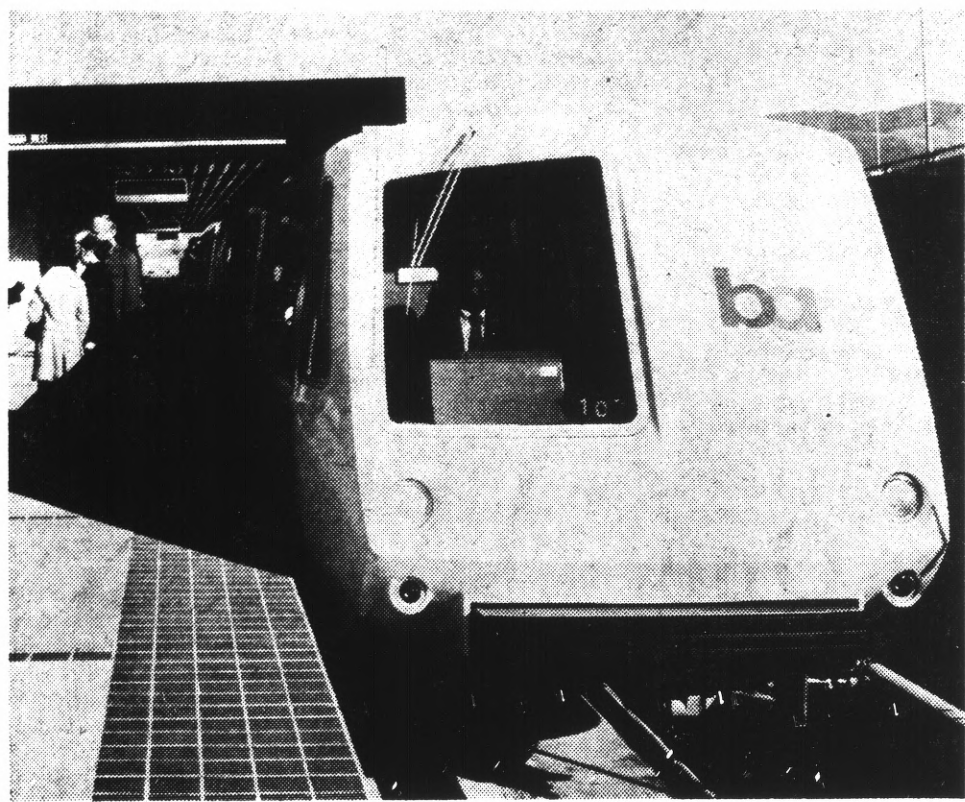

THE VOLUNTEER Bureau of San Mateo County (119 Primrose Rd., Burlingame) has memo'd a need for transportation from Pacifica to El Portal del Norte, San Bruno for imperative therapy. Frankly, I don't know what it's all about, but it sounds worth your concern and a call of inquiry.

(Good grief, this hole is filled so soon?)

Nation's Most Modern

BART System Nears Completion Despite Labor Problems

GETTING READY to head south from the finished MacArthur aerial station platform a five-car BART prototype train is on the move in its testing function as BART progresses to the operational phase of its 75-mile rapid transit system.

Last year was a busy year for the Bay Area Rapid Transit District.

Regardless if the 75-mile system is to be a white elephant or a panacea for the Bay Area's transit ills, the nation's most modern intra-city rail network is well on its way towards completion.

Although there was more construction and new personnel added to the staff of the district, this progress was at times interrupted by labor strikes during the summer which adversely affected schedules.

The year's labor troubles climaxed when, after delivery of its first revenue transit car to BART, the Rohr Corporation experienced a strike and major work stoppage at its Chula Vista plant on November 29.

The target date for starting operations on BART's North Oakland to Fremont run had been March, with the remainder of the system to become operational by late fall 1972.

How the Rohr dispute will affect this time schedule is still being worked out, a BART spokesman said.

BART General Manager Bill Stokes said the Rohr strike had held up delivery of 60 cars needed for the initial start of revenue service, along with cars needed for testing of the train control system.

"Ironically Rohr was forced to stop work just when they had successfully concluded 15 months' intensive testing of ten prototype cars and were ready to begin producing them in quantity," Stokes said.

More than 77 per cent of all project contracts have now been let for the system and the total cost of the completed system — including the Daly City station — is still forecast at $1.4 billion.

With the opening of the 28-mile stretch between Fremont and north Oakland "90 per cent of our technical problems will be solved . . ." Stokes said.

All but three of the system's 34 BART stations were completed last year, or will be within the next three months. And all station parking lots will be completed by June 1972.

Construction on the Daly City and Concord stations started early last year. The Daly City terminus on Knowles Avenue is slated for completion next February.

Construction highlight of the past year for BART is the new headquarters building which rises six stories above the modern transit station in downtown Oakland.

Most of the 160 rail miles of trackage is now down. The minor exception being the final stages of the Daly City and Concord stations.

Electrification of the San Francisco to Daly City line will be completed this summer, according to present schedules.

Major federal grants received by BART district during the past year included $40 million to complete financing of the district's 250 transit cars now on order; $521,000 for system landscaping; $20 million to complete the Embarcadero station; and some $1.5 million for transit studies which include extending the system into the three BART counties.

Also a state grant of $147,000 was received to study law enforcement coordination between BART and on-line communities.

Included in studies undertaken by the district is the Daly City to International Airport project, completed last November.

S.S.F. Youth Hit by Car

A five-year-old South San Francisco boy was in critical condition today with a severe head injury at Peninsula Hospital, Burlingame, after being struck by a car Saturday.

Police said David Bassilio, of 317 Chapman Avenue, apparently ran out in front of a car driven by Delbert R. Wilder, of 722 Laurel, Burlingame. He was not cited.

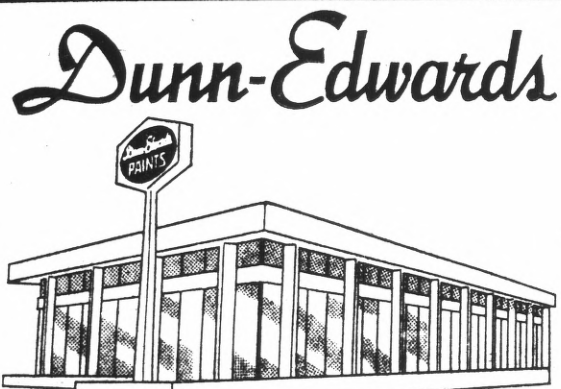

According to police, the accident happened at about 1:30 p.m. in the 200 block of Chapman.

2 Juveniles Arrested

Two San Bruno juveniles have been arrested and charged with the burglary of $867 in property taken from Crestmoor High School some time January 25.

The youths, arrested at their homes, were released to their parents, pending hearings at the Belmont Youth Guidance Center.

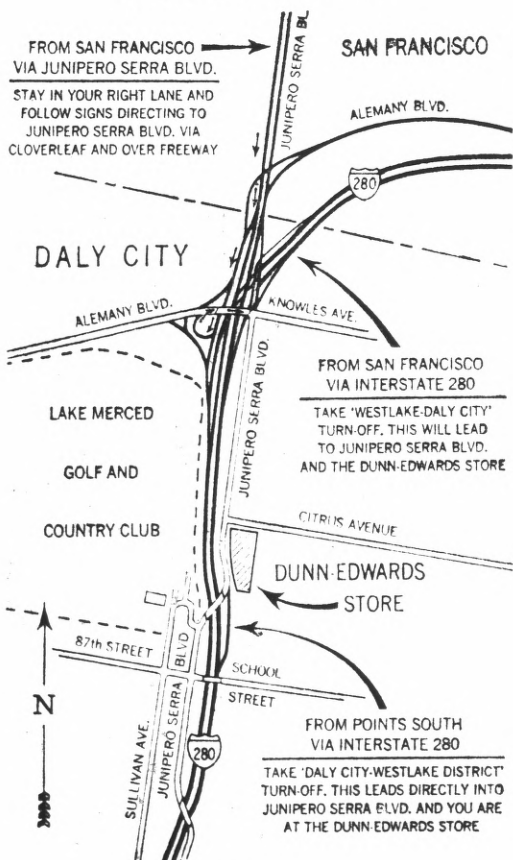

Police said an intensive investigation led them to the youths. The property, a tape recorder and seven musical instruments, was found behind the back fence of the home of one of the youths, police said.

Another Upset as Regents Win

By JERRY LITRELL

The second upset in last week's North Peninsula League action left the conference standings muddled and shaky as teams make the turn for the final stretch for the 1972 championship playoffs.

Serramonte High School threw up a tight zone defense against second-place Oceana and registered a 38-34 victory in Pacifica on Friday. In other league play, South San Francisco routed Terra Nova, 86-49; Westmoor edged visiting El Camino, 40-37, and Jefferson bombed Half Moon Bay, 80-42. Dale Stevenson's six-for-six free throw performance in the final quarter gave the Regents their margin of victory.

Serramonte had rattled off 10 unanswered points at the start of the fourth period to take a 32-23 lead before Terry Johnson. Jim Ribera and Tom Harper started a Shark rally that brought the losers to within two, 34-32.

Everything South San Francisco fired up seemed to go in as the press-and-run Warrior tactics completely unnerved the hosting Tigers.

Rhod Wallace's substitute work, Mason Larkin's ballhandling and Brad Lefler's inside muscle shots dominated the Warrior attack as SSF now shares second place with the Sharks (both have 5-2 marks).

The Indians had little problem with the visiting Cougars after intermission as they outscored HMB, 31-8, in a lopsided third period that really ended festivities.

Ken Smith and Ray Viado led that third stanza onslaught that saw Jefferson hit 11 of 12 free throw attempts and stretch a 32-23 halftime lead to 48-23 before HMB scored.

Smith finished with 14 rebounds to add to his game-high 26 points as the Indians were content to work patiently for inside action in the opening two periods.

Smith dominated the inside game and his three blocked shots helped deter any inside hopes HMB entertained.

For a while it appeared neither teams really wanted the game but Westmoor finally asserted a little muscle on the boards and came through with its fourth win of the campaign against visiting Camino.

For three periods it was a one-point affair as no one on either team really wanted the hot hand on offense. Then late in the third period with the score knotted at 25-all, Gary Stoller tipped in a missed layup. Ted Grey flipped in a 10-footer and Gavin Long hit a short jumper to put Westmoor in front by six, 31-25.

Employing a stall offense, the Rams eased into the victory from that point. Mark Spivey's layup at 5:40 of the final quarter made it 37-33. Westmoor, but neither team scored for the next four minutes.

Spivey's two free throws at 1:40 closed the margin to 37-35 but Jim Woods hit a single free throw and Long added a layup with 30 seconds left to put the winning margin on the scoreboard.

Neither team was impressive on the free throw line as Spivey's five charity shots were the only ones scored in 12 Camino tries while Westmoor again came away dry from the line on 12 of 16 attempts.

Le Pacini

Phony Fields,
Happy Stats!

(Editor's Note: The following is reprinted from and with the permission of, San Francisco Magazine, for which Le Pacini is a contributing editor. The article appeared in the January issue of the magazine.)

One of the sports world's liveliest controversies of 1971 concerned the relative merits of synthetic field coverings. Whether it was called AstroTurf, Tartan Turf, PolyTurf, or a fake by any other name, it would still have come under fire as an instrument of offensive imbalance in baseball and an instrument of destruction in football.

The phony fields send deliriously happy baseball statistics buffs scrambling to their times tables to determine how many more runs were being scored because of the basehits zipping past infielders and bouncing over outfielders' heads, and provided football-oriented doctors research projects to work on between knee surgeries. They even afforded a House Commerce subcommittee a chance to hold a three day hearing in Washington fraught with testimony from the NFL Players Association and representatives of Monsanto, 3M, and American Biltrite, manufacturers of the three leading artificial surfaces.

CHARGES FROM BOTH sports were far-ranging, as were counter-claims by the bogus grass people. Baseball said that while run production hadn't soared (although many players complained of hot-feet from the heat retaining surfaces), it was only because many clubs had been forced to change over to a new breed of small, quick base guardians who could flag down batted balls skidding through the infield. Larger, slower infielders who had theretofore subsisted on their ability to properly position themselves were being forced to the bench.

Football charges ranged from claims of 50 percent more injuries (knee, ankle, bone fractures, concussions) and something as exotic as staphylococcus infections, to counter-claims that fake coverings reduced injuries.

There was even one theory that the dry synthetic surfaces caused more injuries because they are more slippery.

But none of these problems affected the Giants and 49ers, who shared an AstroTurf field at Candlestick. The Giants took their first title of any kind since 1962, and the 49ers weren't hit with any more injuries than is usual among 250 pound men who run full tilt at each other and collide. And hardly any of those injuries could be directly attributable to AstroTurf.

No, as is the wont of San Francisco teams, Giant-49ers problems with AstroTurf are much more esoteric, more a matter of semantics than statistics. They have been involved, since midsummer, in a sort of underground controversy over whether AstroTurf covering is a carpet or a lawn; a question which has already been submitted once to AFL-CIO President George Meany.

IF THE ASTROTURF covering is a carpet, then janitors from Local 87 Building Services Employees Union should service it, contends Rex Kennedy, a union spokesman. If it's a lawn, then Giant gardeners and city gardeners (for the 49ers), will clean it. There has even been talk of using fire fighters with high-powered hoses, especially in the cases of squashed gum discarded by athletes, a practice which raises hell with the coverings.

Herman Eimers, another Local 87 representative, was rebuffed by Meany when Eimers put the problem in his lap several months ago, after the San Francisco Labor Council had demurred and left the decision to the Employees Union's SFLC Executive Secretary George Johns, who had given it back to Eimers.

Meany said that the problem should be straightened out at the local level if possible, and put a neutral mediator on it. Two meetings, however, have proven fruitless, and Kennedy says that if no agreement is reached soon, it will go back to AFL-CIO for arbitration.

In the meantime, only half the parties concerned are apparently taking the controversy seriously. A Giant spokesman says that it's a tempest in a teapot. The 49ers are much more worried about the Rams, and seem to be content with the city gardeners now manuring the "turf" on the city-owned property.

Kennedy thinks it's very serious. "We're fighting for a principle here. There should be no raiding on jurisdiction. There's enough unorganized people around to go out and organize. This is our job, we have had it for years, and rather than come in and horn in on us, they should go out and organize someone else."

"The city has assistant groundsmen out there now, and while their gross is seven or eight cents more than ours, our benefits make the total worth of the job far exceed theirs. So they're not improving the lot of the people who are working out there."

Why have the Giants groundskeepers been allowed by the city to tend to the original real grass surface and now the AstroTurf?

"Well," says Kennedy, "it's sort of like this. The city said to the Giants, 'Here's an unfurnished stadium, put the furniture in the way you want it.' It's saying to the 49ers, 'You're leasing a furnished house. We'll take care of it the way we want it.'"

"It all boils down to the age-old question of city employees versus private industry. That's the principal issue, not whether or not it's a rug or grass. That's really immaterial."

But, ultimately, that is the question — whether or not AstroTurf is material.

At a recent Giant press conference starring Charley Fox and Sam McDowell, Fox gave some very lucid reasons why the Giants felt it would be profitable to trade an outstanding right handed pitcher (Gaylord Perry) for an outstanding left handed pitcher (McDowell). Fox's points follow (not necessarily in order of importance):

- 1) McDowell is four years younger than Perry.
- 2) Southpaws have a reputation for not really coming into their own until their late 20's. (McDowell is 29).
- 3) Good Giant lefties have always been successful at Candlestick, basically because the right field wall is easier homerun territory than the left field wall, and left handed hitters aren't as likely to hit it out with a good lefty pitcher against them.
- 4) Because more right handed pitchers will play against a southpaw pitcher, you're getting more close outs at first base (port-siders must run one stride further down the line than left hitters).
- 5) It will cause the recent plethora of switch-hitters in the league to turn to their right side — more close outs at first, fewer homes.
- 6) For some reason, some of the best right handed hitters in the National League haven't had a lot of success against good southpaw hurlers, which may be against the book, but which is true, insists Charley.

If Fox had any other reasons, he wasn't talking.

IF YOU'RE MARVELING over how Greg Landry, a quarterback, could finish in the top 10 rushing, don't, because that is a distorted statistic. It's amazing, in fact, that QB's haven't finished higher in rushing more often. Not that Landry, or Roger Staubach, or any of the so-call good running quarterbacks, aren't good runners. It's just that they have, literally, everything to gain and nothing to lose.

The way the stats are compiled, everything a QB gains, even if he does it accidentally on a broken play, is credited to his ground gaining column. But if he loses ground, even if it were perhaps a planned play, such as a bootleg, statisticians mark it off to "yards lost attempting to pass," which comes off the team passing statistics, but not the QB's personal rushing statistics. Only on obvious running plays, such as quarterback sneaks, will QB's get nailed personally for lost yardage — and how much yardage can you lose on a quarterback sneak?

Falcons, 'Cats Ready for Next Week's Showdown

By DAN BERTELOTTI

One week from Friday.

That's how much time is left before Crestmoor and San Mateo meet in their showdown wrestling titanic. Both teams were victorious Thursday; San Mateo dumped Burlingame, 38-17; Crestmoor bombed Capuchino, 39-16 and Mills upset Hillsdale 29-23.

The San Mateo match with the Panthers featured a duel between two unbeaten in the 122s, the Cats' Gary Stanton and Burlingame's Dan Irons. Stanton, despite being down 6-1 at one point in the match, came from behind to beat Irons, 10-9.

Bearcat coach Charlie Douglas said, "Stanton deserves a big pat on the back for his performance. He didn't sleep last night thinking about the match."

That means that Stanton will go into the Crestmoor match with Bob Littlefield undefeated. Littlefield is a defending MPL champ. Also undefeated for San Mateo are Mickey Williams, Charlie Simon, Mike Harney, Russ Minow and the ever present Dale Curry, who once again pinned his man in 191s.

Bob Mennis continued his pinning streak in league action to four and raised his season's record to 18-1, his only loss coming in the Del Mar Tournament earlier this month.

Dale Curry

Crestmoor won its fifth straight as both Mike Paul and Littlefield remained unbeaten. The feature match was probably in the unlimited division, as Crestmoor's defending champ Bruce Stevens defeated John Copello, 8-2. In the 175s, a battle of unbeaten took place. Paul Accinelli of Cap met Kevin Ruane of Crestmoor; Accinelli came out of it with a 1-0 squeaker.

After Mills' upset, Hillsdale coach Bob Beekman said, "We were flat. Mills caught us looking to San Mateo next Wednesday."

The Vikings got top notch performances from Gary Bel and Mike Kessler; both won decisions that hurt Hillsdale, as did Mark Shea's pin in 138s.

Remaining undefeated for the Knights is Joe Mota, who won a decision in 145s. Other winners for Hillsdale were Mike Martin-Veque (120s), Mike Everson (154s) and Roger Miller, only a freshman, who earned a draw with senior Joe Romeo in the unlimited.

By CHRIS STAVE

"Thanks for not pouring it on," Burlingame High basketball coach Frank Bettendorf said to his Cap counterpart, Jimmy Johnson, after Cap's 64-55 win Friday night.

Johnson laughed. As well he might. No one was going to pour it on Friday. No one had the strength. Back-to-back night games took a predictable toll.

"We lacked the intensity we had the night before," Bettendorf said. Johnson agreed. "We were flat. Neither one of us wanted to press, we stayed in zones a lot... a gentleman's game."

Still, the win left Cap with a 4-2 Mid-Peninsula League mark at the halfway point, good for third place. Prospects for a play-off position look good.

Burlingame, on the other hand, is now 2-4, in fifth place, and is on the outside looking in for the time being. "It's going to take at least a 6-6 record to make the playoffs," Bettendorf said.

For the entire first half it seemed as though Burlingame and Cap were headed for the season's umpteenth cliffhanger.

Two philosophies of basketball clashed. Cap wanted to shoot the screws out of the backboard, and had the guns to do it.

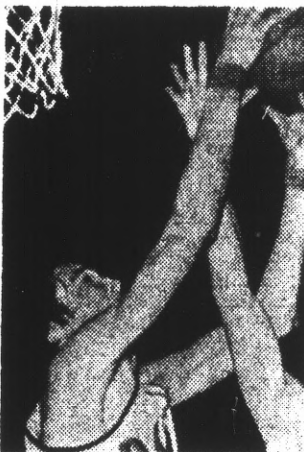

Burlingame wanted to move inside for the easy shot and maintain rebounding position at both ends; both tactics worked.

Cap's Rob Silver, John Bomba and Mike Galvin filled the air with neat parabolas and the sound of swishing nets.

Burlingame's Mike Strohmaier, Butch Cassidy and Howard Huff muscled underneath, and Doc Scheppeler seasoned the output with corner shots.

So Cap led at the half, 33-32. The lead had changed hands six times.

The game ended in a three-minute period of the third quarter, when Burlingame committed six turnovers and Cap happily cashed in on a 46-36 lead, largely with free throws provided by the suddenly generous

Aragon's Flavin

Panthers. It was 51-42 at the buzzer; the fourth quarter was a draw.

Silver and Bomba each got 18 points; Galvin scored 13. Scheppeler got 20 to lead all scorers; teammate Huff netted 12.

Now both coaches face the prospect of (a) six more close ones and (b) a Wednesday-Friday-Saturday schedule for the last week of the season.

It was hard to tell when free throw practice stopped and the game started Thursday at Aragon High gym.

Aragon got only two more baskets than Crestmoor, but looted 42 charity shots and sank 29 of them to take an easy 61-39 win.

The game started slowly; both teams traded baskets and Aragon took an 11-8 lead. Aragon's Tom Flavin and Crestmoor's Mac McCourt, both 6-8 centers, nullified each other for that time; Flavin had three points.

But in the second quarter Flavin went to town, going to the basket and taking the Falcons with him. Flavin himself equaled Crestmoor's point total for the period — nine.

By the half Aragon had a 10-point lead, and the Falcons had gotten into deep foul trouble, which was to get worse later. The Dons made 11 free throws in the half.

Crestmoor came out after the break in a zone defense, hoping to keep Flavin and Co. outside.

The strategy didn't work. It only got the Falcons in more foul trouble as Aragon dropped free throw after free throw. By the third quarter buzzer Aragon led, 44-24, and the reserves took it from there.

Flavin led the foul line parade with a near-perfect night, hitting 13 of 14. He was the game's high scorer, netting 21 before he left the court to substitutes. Tim Sunderland and Pete Popin each contributed nine.

George Ama led the Falcons with 11.

Even the return of Jim Jarvis, who had been sidelined with an ankle injury, couldn't inspire Crestmoor. But Jarvis got seven points in a creditable performance after his layoff — a bright spot for Falcon coach Pete Pontack.

Aragon coach Ed Diaz was worried about the back-to-back scheduling: The Dons host winless San Mateo tonight. "Even though we won this game fairly easily," he said, "we have to come back tonight, and that's always hard."

"But I was particularly pleased tonight with the balanced scoring we got and the shutdown on turnovers, which was one of the things we've stressed in practice."

Ram, Shark Matmen Win

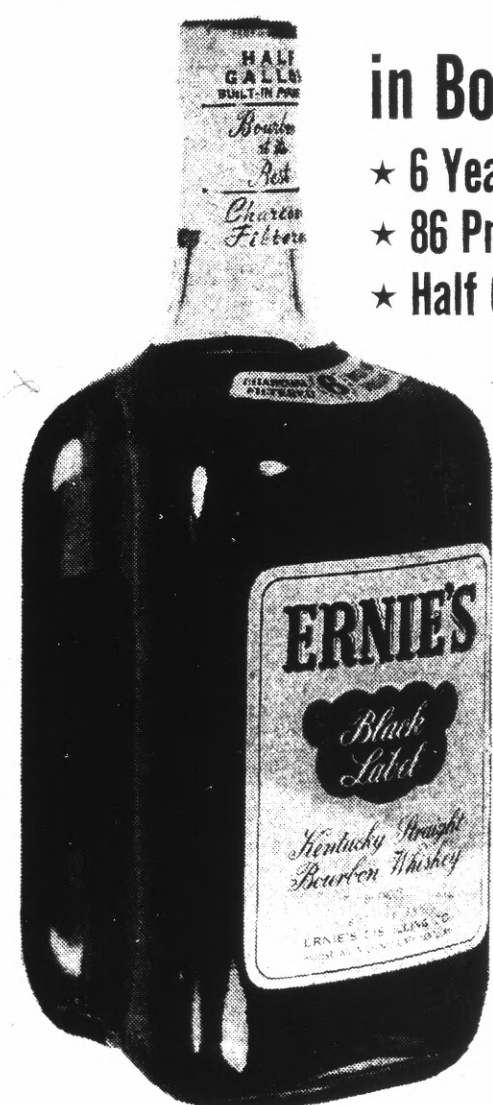

In NPL wrestling held on Friday afternoon, Westmoor edged Oceana 39-23 while Half Moon Bay was clubbing Serramonte 49-15.

Westmoor raised its record to 2-2 with their squeaker over the Sharks. The meet came down to the last match with the Rams' Joe Biedermann having to win and he beat his man for the win.

ABAG Wins Mayors' Support in S.M. County

The Association of Bay Area Governments will have to do.

At least until a better form of regional government comes along.

This was the consensus of the San Mateo County Council of Mayors' meeting in San Carlos last week.

ABAG, through which local governments must process all applications for federal grants, was charged by Councilman Joseph E. Judge of San Carlos of spending more than $10 million on reports that have found "their way to the shelves and gathered nothing but dust."

He conceded, however, that the Bay Area will need eventually a regional government with the powers of taxation and condemnation.

Councilman R. David Martin, the county's representation on ABAG and chairman of the organization's finance committee, said ABAG is now filling "a vacuum."

He agreed, that although present legislation is "a compromise," ABAG "also is doing you a favor."

Martin said the regional agency is the only one that presented a "well-planned plan for coastal development."

"We were represented and the only ones who had representation on the board," Martin insisted.

The discussion came after a proposal was received that cities' dues to ABAG be increased.

"You should know what you are doing before you do it," Martin told the mayors.

He noted that federal Department of Housing and Urban Development says a city must have a housing element in its master plan.

Proposed federal legislation would also have an effect on the San Francisco International Airport, "the biggest employer in San Mateo County," Martin said.

Noting proposals to establish various forms of regional government, Martin said cities must support ABAG, or "someone else will do these things for you."

Councilwoman Mary Henderson of Redwood City, who attended Richmond meeting of ABAG's Home Rule Committee Thursday night, said a regional planning district is being considered.

She said she did not think ABAG's approach to regional government would go too far.

Martin said there is an "act on the book now that has to do with a regional planning district."

If five counties of nine decide to form it, it is formed," he said.

Mayor Nat Landes of Woodside, chairman of the Mayors' Council, ordered the matter to be put over to the council's next meeting.

Previously, however, the mayors agreed to support ABAG, with all cities voting in favor, except San Bruno and Atterton, which abstained.

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD ★ JOHNSON

Vince's Sweepstake Business Success

Particular diners are really appreciating the brand of food and hospitality featured at Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant. Not only is the San Mateo restaurant showing a big volume increase in large dinner parties, the luncheon crowds are showing an increase in numbers (if that is possible). Vince Licata, along with sons Tony and Louis, are to be commended on the sweepstakes success of this restaurant and next-door Fish Depot. Besides excelling in bakery goods, Stickney's has established an outstanding reputation on the Peninsula for serving wonderful steaks. Adrian "Red" Stickney, who once operated a meat company, personally selects the beef for his restaurants. Make Stickney's your breakfast, lunch or dinner stop — the food will excite your palate. Phil Lehr and his staff at the Steakery, in downtown San Francisco, were all set for a big turnout of delegates to the American Physical Society convention which opened Monday. Nightly cocktail parties and dinner meetings were scheduled at the Steakery during the four-day convention.

BACK HOME AGAIN — Petite Jeune Fille Theresa is back "home at the range" of her Scotty Campbell's Redwood City restaurant empire. Theresa and her husband, Bud, along with Mary Lou Francis and the girls' mother, Helen, own and operate this popular Peninsula dining retreat. During the summer months, Theresa and Bud tend to the resort duties for the family at Nippersink, Wisconsin.

Two Minutes Of Silence For Margie Brandon

Margie Brandon, organist at Clancy's, had a very unusual request the other night. She was leading her audience in some very enthusiastic community singing (it got louder as the night wore on) when a non-singing patron appropriately tipped her and requested two minutes of silence. Request granted, but it wasn't easy. Half Moon Bay's Curly Cardoni is a very busy man. Besides being co-owner of the historic Half Moon Bay Inn, Curly has several other enterprises that demand much of his time. One is overseeing the operation of a thriving auto body shop, another is dabbling in real estate. At Bruno's in downtown San Mateo, owner-chef Bruno Fava takes great pride in explaining how he prepares his famous Cannelloni. This tasty dish is a combination of veal, beef and chicken, wrapped in a potato pancake. It's just one of many entrees that have helped to build up Bruno's culinary reputation. Dan Irhazy, the popular waiter, is back at L'Auberge in Atherton. Dan has experience at top restaurants in this country and abroad, both as waiter and manager. Let him select a memorable dinner for you, with an excellent wine to complement it.

Harrah's Club Entertainment

Comedienne Phyllis Diller will appear twice nightly in the South Shore Room at Harrah's Tahoe Friday, Saturday and Sunday (February 4, 5 and 6). Appearing with Miss Diller as a special added attraction will be singer Bobby Vinton. Beginning Thursday night (February 3), a "new" Abbe Lane and her sensuous all-girl image opens in the Headliner Room of Harrah's Reno for a two-week engagement. Also appearing will be comedian Norm Crosby. Dancing and great live entertainment are standard enticements at Delaj's, a rockin' niter in Belmont. Live music can be found here seven nights a week, with a group called Afterglow keeping up a lively pace. Westwood, the new group currently supplying the sounds in the Deacon Brodie Lounge at Royal Coach Motor Hotel in San Mateo, features leader Larry Johnson, who plays bass and sings bass and baritone. Johnson is an ASCAP composer, and has worked in most of the best clubs in San Francisco and Hawaii.

Ercoli Heir Football Minded

Have you wondered why the Leaning Tower's Lou Ercoli is grooming his son, Marc, to be an All American? The lad is now 20 months old and already weighs in at a hefty 34 pounds. Understand the first word he uttered was "football". The Costa Brava restaurant, located near Candlestick Park, is now offering a self-service salad bar for the adventurous. Create your own salad from the large variety on display, and select and draw your own wine direct from the barrel. Having a special party? Manager Kam Amdjadi will be happy to help you with the arrangements. Sales meetings, office parties, wedding receptions etc. are always welcome here. An inexpensive way to have lunch is to drop by Ken Gilley's Prince of Wales Pub in San Mateo. Only six items are on the menu, and the most expensive (Bangers and Mash) is only $1.75. Another low-tabbed favorite is Scottish Beef Pie. Although Vince Russo's new Distillery looks expensive, don't let appearances fool you. Chef Sam Cino's menu still lists fine dinners at moderate prices. Open seven days a week, serving hot and cold hors d'oeuvres from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Enrico Romano Is Man With Many Hobbies

Enrico Romano is a man who does nothing in a half-hearted way. As owner and operator of Romano's Italian restaurant, Rockaway Beach, Pacifica, he prepares some of the best pizzas and Italian dinners anywhere within the Bay Area. As a sportsman, he is a crackshot and hawk-eyed stalker. As a race car enthusiast, he is always out examining new designs and contests. And as a ranking member of the Rotary, he is esteemed by all his colleagues. How this amazing man manages to achieve all these things, without splitting up into four different individuals. Steak lovers: Try the Sir Winston Steak, as found on the dinner menu at the elegant Lord Fletcher Inn in Atherton. The cut of beef is from only the very best Aberdeenshire Angus cattle, which is shipped here from the mid-West. Those who watch their weight will be in heaven when dining at the Exposition Fish Grotto. The menu at this world-famed Fisherman's Wharf restaurant lists 12 different and appetizing salads. A particular favorite is Combination Mixed Green and Seafood. It's a mixture of crab, shrimp, lobster, prawns, lettuce and romaine, with Louis or French dressing. Try it, you'll like it!

GASTRONOMIC GENIUS — Fernand Wagner, executive chef and co-owner of La Cigogne, an excellent French restaurant in downtown San Mateo, is a master at preparing unique French dishes. Even the most severe critics are raving over many of his flawless culinary creations.

Foster's 2 For 1 Chicken Dinner Coupon Special

Most restaurants have specials, and Foster's Farm-Fried Chicken House, located across from Hillsdale Shopping Center, is no exception. Now, through February 3, Foster's will feature a coupon special that is bound to create a food bonanza on the Peninsula. Clip the coupon appearing on Bright Lights and receive two Farm-Fried Chicken Dinners for the price of one. This great value includes soup or salad, snowflake potatoes and country gravy, hot biscuits and honey, dessert and beverage. Banquets are big business at the Golden Steer in Redwood City. Owner Roy Devincenzi, who also does a great deal of outside catering, provides groups with private facilities that can easily accommodate up to 150 persons. Not too many restaurants enjoy the word-of-mouth praise that is often heard about Fabbro's in Redwood City. This fact alone greatly accounts for much of Frank Fabbro's success and his excellent dining spot, which has been hosting partons since 1934. The next time you're driving by Millbrae's King's Bowl, drop in and say hello to perky Phyllis Alioto, owner of the Blue Peacock restaurant. "Phyll" is a lot of fun to gab with, and she serves several daily luncheon specials guaranteed to please.

Nick's Show Place Of The Shores

Nick Gust's Moonraker, a show place on the shores of Pacifica, is a natural for those who fancy the nautical. To accent an evening of elegant dining, flood lights illuminate the Rockaway Beach shoreline and reflect against the nearby rolling hills. If you seek a romantic surrounding, make reservations now at The Moonraker. Nick's Restaurant and Lounge, which also overlooks the horizon of the Pacific, is a lively place on weekends for the dance crowds. The Del Carlo Combo plays the dance sets on Friday and Saturday nights. Jim Payer fills song requests on the organ. A skillful blend of imagination and taste is quite obviously manifested at the Papagayo Room. Nick Gust has created a distinctive "south of the border" theme for the dining room and lounge. Wide windows focus your interest on the view, but the aroma of Mexican cooking soon has you commenting about the menu selection. Banquet facilities are available at A. Sabella's, at picturesque Fisherman's Wharf, for parties as large as 450 persons, and as small as 40. A lasting impression of A. Sabella's restaurant is the courtesy extended by the staff to all who pass through the doors.

Biggest Man In Show Business

Russell Reed (all 395 pounds of him) has added a strip routine to his wild act at Finocchio's, a San Francisco nightclub famous for its outstanding female impersonators. Russ spoofs all the well-known strippers of history, from Ann Corio to Gypsy Rose Lee, and gets down to his red flannels. Another of his hits is the number "It All Belongs To Me," a Tessie O'Shea trademark. Local baseball fans gathered at The Shadows in San Mateo, the occasion being a meeting of the Giants' Booster Club. Among those in attendance were Manager Charlie Fox and "southpaw pitcher" "Sudden Sam" McDowell. The classic dishes of Italy and France, as well as the top dishes of this country served at Doros in San Francisco are prepared under the direction of their master chef, Paolo Bermiani. Doros' head man, Don Dandana, stocks the finest wines and liquors from all over the world. Banquet business has been on the upswing throughout January at Low Lehr's Steak House, in San Francisco's Marina district. Among the many prominent San Franciscans holding dinner parties at Lehr's: Sidney Kamler, who celebrated his seventy-eighth birthday with a family dinner party.

They Battle Dope Pushers

By VIRGIL WILSON

A casual observer might suppose the parade of hippie-like young men to and from a certain location in central Redwood City indicates the presence of some kind of nefarious pad there.

He wouldn't know that the long-tressed and hairy-faced visitors are really the cream of San Mateo County's law force, an elite squad of narcotics officers operating in disguise to infiltrate the ranks of illicit drug traffickers, and that the particular place is their headquarters.

The nine-man squad of "buyers" under the command of Sheriff's Lt. Donald Coslett comprise the San Mateo County Narcotics Unit, a city-county agency funded by a federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration grant.

In the first four months of operation, unit investigators arrested 66 drug pushers in this county, seized illegal drugs having a street value of $77,246, recovered $5,000 in stolen property, and provided leads that resulted in 21 arrests and the seizure of $90,300 in contraband in other counties.

Coslett hopes that those accomplishments and others will persuade the federal agency to continue to back the unit, which started out last August with a one-year federal grant of $163,502 and county funds and services valued at $128,705. Coslett is busy now compiling statistics and preparing an application for a second-year grant.

"We have to show accomplishment if we are to continue to receive funding," Coslett says, "and I think we can do that."

The squad, which includes five sheriff's deputies and one narcotics officer from each of the San Mateo, Redwood City, Daly City and Menlo Park police departments, maintains a complete central narcotics records file for the use of all law enforcement agencies. During the first four months members of the unit gave 78 lectures to 2,100 students in classrooms throughout the county. And Coslett and Sheriff's Sgt. Michael Dow taught narcotics enforcement classes for police students at College of San Mateo.

Of the 66 arrests in the county, 22 were for sale of heroin and the remainder for sale of other drugs. Fifty-four of the suspects were men, 10 were women and two were juveniles — a boy and a girl.

"We try to stay away from kids," Coslett says. "No sense turning up a good agent for one or two caps of something."

He explains that it is poor percentage to run the risk of his undercover operatives being discovered — burned up — on investigations of small fry.

"Our job," he says, "is to seek out and destroy sources. We are after the big dealers."

His original squad remains intact.

"A few have been burned in certain areas of the county," Coslett says, "but they are still able to work in other areas."

Drugs seized in the four months include 15 ounces of heroin, 222 pounds of marijuana, 32 tablets of codeine, a half-ounce

Courses Set Home Repair

A new course in home repairs is among the spring semester offerings of the Adult School of the San Mateo Union High School District. The semester begins Monday.

Designed for the home owner who would like to know how to make general home repairs, the new course will cover electrical, plumbing, and carpentry repairs (including what to do about termites and dry rot); indoor and outdoor painting; handling concrete; small appliance repair; and the legal aspects of additions and remodeling. Home Repairs will be offered on Tuesday nights from 7 to 10 at Mills High School in Millbrae. Enrollment is on a first-come, first served basis; the class is open to men and women.

Other Adult School classes are held at Burlingame High School in Burlingame, Capuchino and Crestmoor high schools and Belle Air School in San Bruno, Mills High in Millbrae, and Hillsdale and San Mateo high schools in San Mateo. This spring, subjects will include high school diploma courses, English as a second language, clothing, physical fitness, driver education, interior decorating, crafts, art, auto mechanics for the layman, and contemporary metal work. There are also brush-up business courses, basic courses in elementary subjects, and citizenship classes.

Tryouts in Pacifica

Pacifica Spindrift Players have announced they will continue their 1971-1972 season by presenting "Any Wednesday," by Muriel Resnick, a comedy which deals with people whose paths cross each other under the most unexpected and hilarious circumstances. Cast requirements are two men and two women.

Casting sessions are to be held at the Sharp Park Library, Palmetto and Hilton Way, Pacifica, 2 to 4 p.m. and 7:30 to 9 p.m. on Sunday, January 30, Saturday, February 5, and Sunday, February 6. Director is Luther Spraker.

Sheriff's Lieutenant Donald Coslett

among the users his men come in contact with.

"They're going more into heroin and cocaine," he says, "and there are a lot of amphetamine tabs around now. We don't see so much of the powder form as we used to, but there is a lot of it around in tablet form. And there is a lot of heroin. You never used to hear much about cocaine, but there is plenty of it around now. LSD was down for awhile, but it is starting to come back up."

The trend toward hardness seems to apply to the users as well.

"We have been picking up lots of guns," Coslett explains. "There seems to be a tendency among drug traffickers to carry guns. That's another reason we like to use officers in our investigations instead of informers."

A primary reason, he says, is that well-trained professionals, knowing what the courts require in the way of evidence and being aware of the rights of suspects, are less likely to blow the case either during the investigation or in court. In the four-month period, his men made 69 appearances in Municipal Court and eight appearances in Superior Court.

The unit maintains close liaison with the County Law Enforcement Association and with narcotics officers in each of the police departments.

Foreign Students to Pay $550

The San Mateo Junior College District Board of Trustees Wednesday reached a compromise solution to the troublesome question of how much tuition to charge foreign students attending schools in the district.

The trustees, by a 3-0 vote (Trustees James Tormey and Robert Tarver were both absent), decided to charge the foreign students $550 a year beginning this coming fall semester.

The board members also decided that this plan would be in effect for the next six months and, at the end of that period, the administration would analyze the effect of tuition on applications for enrollment.

In addition, the board limited the number of foreign students in the district to two per cent of the total district student body. As of now, that means about 260 foreign students could attend the district's three colleges.

Arriving at that $550 figure was not easy for the trustees. They spent several meetings haggling over what the cost ought to be. The length of the deliberations was influenced in part by comments made months ago during the district's tax override election. At that time, many elements in the community had voiced displeasure with the district's policy of allowing foreign students to attend the colleges for nothing.

At least some board members had indicated at that time that this policy would have to be re-considered and possibly done away with.

Last night's decision proved to be a compromise.

District Chancellor Clifford Erickson argued that a fiscally sound fee would be $750 a year, the maximum the district could charge the students.

In his memo to the board, Erickson pointed out that, even by charging $750 a year, local taxpayers would still have to assume another $175 per student to combine with state aid of $125 per student to finance the average cost of $1,050 per student.

Using Erickson's formula, the $550 figure would thus leave the taxpayers in San Mateo County with a cost of some $97,500 to pick up for the foreign student program if 260 students do elect to come to the three county colleges.

(The $97,500 figure is arrived at by multiplying the 260 students by $375—$1,050 minus the total of $550 plus state aid of $125.)

The $550 figure was suggested as a compromise by Trustee Francis Pearson, an accountant.
